BENTLEY OUT FOR GOVERNOR HAS PLATFORM

Candidate for Democratic Nomination Favors Repeal of or Amendment to Volstead Act

REVIEWS HIS PUBLIC CAREER IN STATEMENT ISSUED TODAY

Strongly Defends His Stand on Modification of Eighteenth Amendment

Declaring himself in favor of the repeal of, or an amendment to the eighteenth amendment to permit lawful sale of beverages containing more than one half of one per cent alcohol and a vote of the electors on this question at the 1923 spring election, Mayor A. A. Bentley, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor, issued today a statement which may be construed as a platform.

In this statement Mr. Bentley reviews his record as mayor and frankly declares his stand on the wet and dry question. His statement follows:

Who Mr. Bentley Is

"Arthur A. Bentley was born on a farm in Minnesota, January 26th, 1877. He lost his home at the age of eleven years. He worked for his board among the farmers in Minnesota and attended school during the winters until he was fifteen years of age. Then he began clerking in a general store. After three years work he attended the Red River Valley University, then located at Wahpeton, North Dakota, for one year. Short of funds, he re-entered a general store as bookkeeper, at which place he worked for several years. Later on, he engaged in wholesale grocery commission business, and located in La Crosse Wisconsin in 1901 becoming manufacturers' agent selling to wholesale grocers, at which business he continued for the most part of the time until he was elected Mayor of the city of La Crosse in 1915.

"He has owned a cattle and sheep ranch in North Dakota, has had experience in farming in large areas; was president of a North Dakota bank, manager of the big department store, and the town of Bentley, Hettinger county, North Dakota is named for him.

"Since being elected Mayor of the city of La Crosse, Mr. Bentley has conducted a weekly newspaper and filled numerous speaking engagements throughout the middle west. He has been Mayor of the city of La Crosse continuously for eight years, having been elected four times. He has been a consistent, progressive

FRAZIER TAKES THE LEAD IN RACE FOR G. O. P. SENATORIAL NOMINATION IN NORTH DAKOTA

DEFEAT OF M'CUMBER MAKES BIG DENT IN OLD GUARD CONTROL

Senator Ready to Concede Nomination of Nonpartisan Candidate

INVOLVES CHAIRMANSHIP OF TWO IMPORTANT COMMITTEES

Finance and Foreign Relations May Be Headed by Radicals

FARGO, N. D.—By the Associated Press.—Defeat of Porter J. McCumber, senior U. S. Senator from North Dakota and chairman of the senate finance committee, who sought renomination on the republican ticket, was indicated in returns available at noon today from Wednesday's state-wide primary. These unofficial figures from 1,515 of the state's 2,064 precincts gave McCumber 65,890 votes as against 67,541 polled by Lynn J. Frazier, Nonpartisan league choice, who was governor of the state for five years until he and two other league endorsed state officials were recalled last fall.

Nestos Re-nominated

While the league apparently had been successful in the senatorial race it seemed apparent that it had been defeated in its efforts to capture the republican nominations for state officers, as returns pointed to the renomination of Gov. R. A. Nestos, independent.

When 1,433 precincts had been accounted for in the gubernatorial contest, Nestos had a lead of 19,000 votes over B. F. Baker, the league candidate, the count standing: Nestos, 75,534; Baker, 56,690.

Independent newspapers predicted Nestos' nomination by a 10,000 plurality.

Senator McCumber's defeat in the primary bars him from entering the fall election as an independent and consequently he is completely eliminated.

Hits Old Guard

WASHINGTON, D. C.— The apparent defeat of Senator McCumber (N. D.) in Wednesday's primary will cause a deep dent in the old guard control of the senate.

If Mr. McCumber has failed to secure renomination, as he himself was ready to concede Thursday, the two most important committees in congress may fall into the hands of radicals within a short period.

Through the operation of the seniority rule, Senator McCumber, veteran of twenty-three years service in the senate, is chairman of the finance committee and second in rank on the foreign relations committee. These two committees in recent years have come to be regarded as the most powerful in congress.

Smoot May Head Mormon Church

The chairmanship of the finance committee, in the event of Senator McCumber's defeat, will go to Senator Smoot (Utah), who now occupies second place, but there is no telling how long Senator Smoot will remain in congress. Persistent reports are in circulation that at no far distant date Senator Smoot will be called to head the Mormon church, a summons which he, as a devout member of that denomination, could not ignore.

It is at this juncture that the seniority rule comes home to plague its most devoted adherents. Next to Senator Smoot in point of seniority is Senator Robert M. La Follette (Wis.), who has just embarked on a campaign of radicalism exceeding anything in his stormy career. If the seniority rule is upheld Senator La Follette would become chairman of the finance committee.

Borah to Follow Lodge

An equally disconcerting prospect to the old guard rises in connection with the succession in the foreign relations committee. Senator Lodge (Mass.), republican leader in the senate, is chairman, and Senator McCumber is second in command. Senator Borah (Idaho), is third on the list. If anything should happen to Senator Lodge—death or defeat this year—Senator Borah, under the seniority rule, would step into the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee.

Another possibility growing out of the elimination of "old timers" and the operation of the seniority rule is that Senator La Follette may become chairman of the interstate commerce committee which has charge of all legislation relating to the railroads.

May Abolish Seniority Rule

MEXICAN BANDITS FREE BRITISH AND AMERICAN CAPTIVES

Eighty-five Employes of La Corona Company at Liberty State Department Heads

NO INFORMATION GIVEN AS TO WHETHER RANSOM WAS PAID

No Other Americans Believed Involved in Bandit Raids

WASHINGTON. — Appointment of a joint congressional committee to investigate the alleged kidnappings and captures of American citizens and their property by bandits in Mexico, was proposed in a resolution introduced Friday by Representative Connally, democrat, Texas.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dispatches to the state department Friday from Consul Shaw at Tampico indicated that the eighty-five employes of the British-owned La Corona Oil company, including the half dozen Americans held Thursday for ransom by outlaws, had been released. The message was very brief and not clear and the department telegraphed immediately for an explanation.

The consul said merely that the eighty-five persons referred to in his report Thursday of the new bandit raid were "not now held." It was not stated whether the bandits had withdrawn from the property at the Pecera camp of the oil company or whether any payment had been made.

State department officials assumed that the message meant that Gorozave, the bandit leader, had released from captivity all of the employes at the camp and that this implied at least five bandits had left the camp although when the raid occurred, Gorozave had fixed July 2 as the date by which his demand for a payment of 9,000 pesos must be met.

If the interpretation placed here on the consul's message is correct and the bandits have released their captives for the moment at least, the situation had been cleared up as no Americans are involved so far as known in any other disturbances in Mexico.

RAISE WHITE FLAG OVER FOUR COURTS BUILDING FRIDAY

Two-day Siege Ends With Barricaded Troops Giving up to Free Staters

PORTION OF BUILDING BLOWN UP BEFORE OCCUPANTS LEAVE

Dublin Becoming Huge Fortress With Fighting Everywhere

DUBLIN.—By The Associated Press. —The Four Courts building in Dublin, stronghold of the insurgent faction of the Irish republican army was surrendered unconditionally to the Free State forces at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, it was officially announced by the Free State authorities.

Commandant Rory O'Connor and Liam Mellowes and the entire garrison, including all the principal executive officers, were made prisoners.

Thirty of the Free State troops were wounded in the Four Courts explosion. None, however, was killed by the blast.

An explosion, which blew up a section of the building, preceded the surrender by a few hours. It is believed a considerable number of the insurgents were wounded by the explosion, although they were not occupying that part of the structure which was blown up. When the surrender took place the Four Courts were still in flames.

There were 130 regulars in the party. They marched out with a priest at the head of their column. The Free State commandant had issued orders to cease firing.

Occupy the Building

Skill in conducting attacking operations saved many lives when the Four Courts building was captured, says an official bulletin issued from the headquarters of the Free State troops. Thirty-three irregulars were made prisoner when the building was occupied. Free State forces occupied the greater part of the structure, forcing the irregulars to retire to a rear section partially blown away by artillery fire.

During the evening permission was asked to allow a nurse in uniform and a woman to enter the Four Courts on the grounds of humanity. It was discovered when the nurse was taken for interrogation that "she" was Thomas Darcy, one of the signatories to the irregulars' proclamation. He said he was chief of staff of the irregulars, and was made prisoner.

Mines are Discovered

Mines were found laid in the building and a large quantity of ammunition was captured.

The statement says that an ambulance driver was wounded while returning with soldiers wounded in the vicinity of the Four Courts.

De Valera With Rebels

An Irish republican war news poster says that Eamon De Valera, the republican leader, is on active service with the Dublin brigade, fighting for the Irish republic.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Friday morning seven open lorry loads of British soldiers in full kit with helmets and rifles and followed by a machine gun car, passed along Adelaide road and were sniped at.

It is presumed the British were on their way to protect the naval station at Kingstown which was attacked on Thursday by irregulars.

Free State troops in operations against irregulars in Dublin were Friday meeting insurgent measures in outlying parts of the city, taking up positions in buildings here and there, fortifying them and establishing observation posts.

Fighting All Over City

The city is thus rapidly becoming a huge fortress with hundreds of snipers firing almost continuously and the peril to people in the streets hourly becoming more acute.

Talbot street, where in front of Moran's hotel two lorries containing British soldiers were fired on by the mutineers shortly after noon, is becoming one of the greatest danger points. The fire from the hotel was maintained throughout the morning in the direction of the Nelson pillar, where the Free Staters occupy an opposing position.

The irregulars in their scattered outposts, are displaying frenzied activity. In Marlborough street they are occupying a number of houses and have made them resemble fortresses by cutting loopholes in the walls.

The insurgents also are occupying twelve hotels and a number of public and business premises. Several of these are in Parnell square and other points in Central Dublin. They have several strongholds in houses on both sides of Gardiner street in which a lorry load of regular troops was fired on Friday morning.

PROCEED WITH STRIKE PLANS FOR SATURDAY

Union Leaders Refuse to Delay Walk-out Pending Result of Negotiations Begun at Friday Meeting

TRACK MEN HALT STRIKE ORDER PENDING CONFERENCE TODAY

Eyes of Railway World Turn to Efforts of Rail Board to Avert Strike

CHICAGO, Ill.— By the Associated Press.—B. M. Jewell, head of the six shop craft unions, was Friday subpoenaed by the United States railway labor board to appear before the board for official investigation into the threatened strike of 400,000 shopmen.

CHICAGO, Ill.— By the Associated Press.— Labor board officials learned Friday afternoon that President B. M. Jewell of the railroad shopmen's organization, was preparing a statement for publication at 2:15 Friday afternoon which it was said at labor board headquarters would announce the determination of the shopmen's leaders not to appear at the conference at the labor board between the board, the executives and the national officers of the shopmen.

Leaders of the railroad shop crafts whose nation-wide walkout is set for 10 a. m. Saturday have notified the United States railroad labor board that the shopmen refuse to delay their strike pending negotiations begun by the board which were to be started at a conference at the board's headquarters at two o'clock Friday afternoon.

CHICAGO, Ill.—(By the Associated Press.) — Assurance that both the railroads and their employes will abide by the law and orders of the United States railroad labor board, was the basis on which the federal body pinned its hopes of throttling the threatened rail strike Friday.

Union Men Absent

Five minutes before the hearing was to convene at 2 o'clock, only one union head had appeared, although there was a strong representation of railway men.

Rumors persisted that neither B. M. Jewell, head of the shop craft, nor any of the heads would appear unless subpoenaed by court order.

The lone union man to show up was F. H. Fitzgerald, president of the clerks. The convening hour arrived and the union heads had not appeared, although a communication from Mr. Jewell was delivered at that hour to Chairman Hooper.

D. W. Helt, head of the signalmen, was the second union head to reach the hearing room. Neither of the two union leaders present have full strength strike votes coming. Not more than half the membership of each organization is even casting a strike ballot.

Can't Halt Strike Belief

Hope of recalling the shopmen's strike sanction waned rapidly as time passed and the chairs of the union leaders remained vacant. Only two members of the board, A. O. Wharton and Albert Phillips, both of the labor group, were on the bench at 2:20 o'clock.

Chairman Hooper was in conference with other members of the board and E. F. Grable, head of the maintenance of way brotherhood, the third union head to arrive at the board's office.

Chairman Hooper and other members of the board took their seats at 2:30 and amid an expectant hush, the hearing was called to order.

From authoritative sources, it was learned that practically all of the railroads which have been contracting railroad work to outside firms, a practice declared in violation of the law and the board's orders, would enter the official investigation by the board ready to announce compliance with the board's rulings.

While there was no announcement that the twenty-three roads which have farmed out work to outside contractors would announce discontinuance of the practice as a body, every effort was to be made by the board to bring the recalcitrant roads in line. Definite assurance that the roads would henceforth obey the board's mandates would place every issue over which the six shop unions threaten a strike in the hands of the board.

BYRAM REQUESTS EMPLOYES HERE NOT TO STRIKE

Head of Milwaukee Railroad Sends Letter to Officers and Employes

BLOW AT GOVERNMENT AND BAD FOR ALL CONCERNED

Pleads With Men Not to Cause Any More Suffering

La Crosse employes of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company today received from H. E. Byram, president, a circular letter requesting them not to strike on July 1. The letter which was posted on local bulletin boards of the railroad today, follows:

"All Officers and Employes: It is reported in the newspapers a strike is to be called, effective July 1, or some other date in the near future, which may affect a large portion of our employes. I hope the report is not true, because:

"First.— No good ever came from a strike; both employes and employers always suffer as a result of a strike. In this case the issue is not between railroads and their employes, but involves compliance with the decision of the United States Railroad Labor board.

"Second—A strike against this decision would be a strike against the government, because the United States Railroad Labor board is a part of the government of the United States, and its decisions are authorized by law.

"Third—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company has promptly and completely complied with the orders of the United States Railroad Labor board when these orders were unfavorable to the company, and we believe that our employes as good citizens of the republic would also accept the decision of the board, which takes effect July 1, 1922.

"Fourth—After five years of depression during which many of our employes have been working on short time, or even laid off altogether and the company has suffered severe financial loss, the prospect of abundant crops and general business reasons makes it necessary that not a day be lost in getting our roadway, cars and locomotives in repair, and a program has been mapped out for substantially increasing our forces July 1 for the purpose.

"Fifth—We believe it is important to both our employes and the company that this program should not be interrupted and that both of us would suffer and neither would gain if a strike should occur. I hope our employes will think it over carefully and remain at work, and by so doing, we will be better off in the long run.

(Signed) "H. E. BYRAM,
"President."

CALL COUNCIL FOR OPPOSING UNION STATION

Action of Aldermen Ill Advised and Unwarranted Says General Union Depot Committee

ASKS RAILROAD COMMISSION TO DECIDE CASE ON MERITS

Strong Resolution Adopted by Committee Headed by Frank P. Hixon

AT ITS last meeting the common council passed a resolution requesting the Chamber of Commerce to abandon its campaign for a union depot. Now comes the union station committee of La Crosse with a resolution, adopted at a meeting Thursday afternoon, pronouncing the action of the common council ill-advised, inconsistent and unwarranted and requesting the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin to decide the union depot case on its merits.

The resolution follows:

"Resolution adopted by Union Station Committee of La Crosse representing the following organizations: Trades and Labor Council, La Crosse County Community Council, Progressive League, Catholic Woman's League, Twentieth Century Club, La Crosse Woman's Club, Kiwanis Club, Citizens' Co-operative League, Rotary Club, United Commercial Travellers, Chamber of Commerce, Art Association, Memorial Commission, and the Parents and Teachers Associations of the various public schools.

"Whereas, the Union Station Committee, made up of appointed representatives of fourteen civic organizations, usurping no rights which belong to any official, or governing body of the City of La Crosse, has for a long time past been endeavoring to bring about the erection of a union station in the City, and

"Whereas, this committee has taken the utmost pains, using the best available methods, to test the sentiment of the citizens of La Crosse on the question, and has ascertained that it is overwhelmingly in favor of the erection of such a station on such site as may be determined to be best and most available by practical experts qualified to judge, and

"Whereas, a final hearing on the matter was recently held by the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, at which the City Attorney was present by direction of the Common Council to urge the earliest possible determination of the question, be it

"Resolved, That this Committee, believing that the action of the Common Council at its last meeting, was ill-advised, inconsistent and unwarranted, refuses to be a party to any action which will have the effect of beclouding and delaying the issue. And be it further

"Resolved, That the Railroad Commission of the State of Wisconsin, be, and is hereby urged and petitioned to proceed with the least possible delay to decide the union station case now before it, on its merits, and that a copy of these resolutions be filed with said Railroad Commission.

(Signed)
"Union Station Committee, F. P. Hixon, Chairman."

SCOTLAND TO GIVE INDUSTRIAL WATER POWER PRIVILEGES

Bill Introduced in Commons Granting Privileges on Lakes and Rivers

LONDON.—Scotland is waking up to the fact that its lakes and waterfalls may be made to serve other purposes than providing scenic attraction for tourists. As proof of this the "Grampian Electricity bill" has been given a second reading in the house of commons.

The company is empowered to collect and use the waters of 15 lochs and 99 small lakes, rivers and streams, over an area of 417 square miles.

The waters proposed to be utilized are estimated to be capable of generating 58,000 horse-power to supply electricity in the counties of Perth, Kinross and Forfar and districts in four other counties. The capital is placed at 1,500,000 pounds.

That any of the beautiful lakes and falls of "Caledonia, stern and wild," should be used to set the wheels of industry spinning many in Scotland regard almost as sacrilegious desecration. And that opinion is shared by not a few Americans who are accustomed to visit Scotland annually.

But the promoters declare that the preservation of the natural beauties of Scotland is expressly provided for by the terms of the bill. And they add that when the hum of the electrically-driven wheels of industry are heard in the land, and dividends begin to come in, the cry of "desecration" will be silenced.

$250,000 Price is Put On Head of Deadly Germ That Threatened the Olive Industry

MISS BERTHA DUBOVSKY

By GENE COHN

BERKELEY, Cal.— Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars—this is the price put on the head of the botulism germ.

The Hooper Foundation will use this fund, provided by canners, to exterminate this deadly enemy of the canning industry. War to the death on it has been made possible by the success of Miss Bertha Dubovsky in tracking the germ "to earth," literally.

This girl chemist of the University of California has found:

"That bacillus botulinus is a common inhabitant of the soil, polluting the earth in certain localities and finally contaminating the trees and products grown on that particular ground."

More than two years ago the mysterious and deady botulinus began to take its toll of lives. A number of deaths occurred in California and were followed by others in the east. Because many victims had been stricken after eating olives the entire olive industry was for a time threatened. Even home-canned vegetables proved deadly in many instances.

Scientific investigation immediately was started by the Hooper Foundation under the general direction of Dr. K. F. Meyer, whose chalmoogra oil treatments resulted in leprosy cures.

THE SEA PAINTED WITH BLOOD

That the monsters of the deep fight in groups as well as engage in personal encounters is testified to by Captain G. Evered Poole, a commissioner in the Gold Coast Colony, who writes the following: "Between Sierra Leone and Sekondi we steamed through, for over an hour, a blood-red sea, and saw some hundred of whales dead or dying on the surface of the water. Some were just able to move slowly along; few, if any, could move quickly. There must have been a sanguinary battle, supposed to have been put up by swordfish. It was a most appalling sight, and the extent of the expanse of bloodshed must have represented the death of many more whales than were visible.

In 1644 Liverpool, England, was a small fishing village surrounded by a high mud wall.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH OF RUSSIA DEPENDS ON RESULT OF CROPS

Industry May Show Growth After September if 1922 Harvest is Fair

MOSCOW.—Food is the keynote of many soviet Russian problems; hence the crop prospects for September, 1922, are of the greatest interest. There is reason to believe that the yield will be greater than in the famine year of 1921, but further than this no one today can prophesy.

If the 1922 harvest is fair, Russian industry may show considerable growth after September. Factories would then be able to provide their workers with food; the lumber industry would improve if the woodcutters were able to get rations, and their activities would see the opening of saw mills.

As the meager food stocks in the provinces become more and more depleted, provincial Russians are coming to Moscow to sell their belongings to buy food in the city markets. Reversing the process of a year ago, when city dwellers went to the provinces for food, now the provincials find that Moscow, where free trade has developed much more than in the country, has stocks available for all with money.

Moscow's progress toward surface prosperity during the past few months has made it a startling contrast to less fortunate provincial towns.

SPEAK THE GOOD WORD

HEAVINESS in the heart of man maketh it stoop; but a good word maketh it glad.—Proverbs 12: 25.

Defects and Remedies

THIS is a republican state. As a rule there is no contest in the republican primaries. There are no contests in the socialist primaries. Democrats and socialists go into the republican primaries. Some of them do so to help nominate good men, as republicans are pretty sure to carry elections. Others seek to nominate weak republican candidates, in the usually vain hope of defeating them in the ensuing election.

What, if anything, should be done about this?

Under our primary law, candidates for nomination make their own platforms. After the primary the nominees get together in party platform conventions, and a party platform is adopted. It constitutes the pledge of the nominees to the voters. This party platform may have nothing in common with one or all of the individual platforms upon which the candidates were nominated, in fact may run directly counter to them. Thus we frequently have men standing for the November elections upon principles entirely different from those upon which they were nominated in September.

Is this right? Should it be altered?

The effect of the personal platform is to make the party merely a personal thing in the hands of strong men. They appropriate principles to themselves as their personal property. The collective judgment of the party is lost. The party itself becomes a secondary matter, as the leader forges ahead and becomes a boss. Senator La Follette calls himself a republican, but to his followers "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet." Political parties in Wisconsin are dying out. They are crossing each other's boundaries, borrowing principles, swapping votes. Interbreeding is fatal to type. Soon the political party will become only a label for the personal political propaganda of this or that big politician. It will have no principles that he can not change at will. Candidates not in his good will need not apply. He will be

"The cook and the captain and the midshipman
And the crew of the Nancy brig."

Should Senator La Follette sweep the state with his entire ticket in September, he would be the party and the government. It isn't nearly as much a question whether he would be a good party and a good government, as whether Wisconsin is willing to farm out its democracy to one man in the shape of a life lease.

Are two heads better than one? People used to say so. Democracy is founded upon the idea that government shall be produced from the counsel of the electorate through the ballot. A dictatorship is "something else again." There is something wrong with the machinery of a democracy which automatically creates a dictatorship. Have we nothing to mend here?

The surest way to the old caucus and convention system is through defects in the primary. Even a beloved despot can not save us from that. New York state knows. There a primary law was passed by its foes, under popular pressure. It worked badly, of course, as do all bad laws. Now New York has gone back to the caucus and convention system. Wisconsin does not want to do that. Too many of us remember our government as it was then administered. We've had enough. And the best way to avoid going back is to "size up" our primary law and see how it can be improved.

Any attempt to improve the primary law as a factional program will fail. All factions of all parties should participate. There should be no politics in it. It should be an honest effort to make the primary as nearly as possible an agency that will accurately register the will of the majority.

If it is true that the party system, in which the outs watch and criticise the ins, and measures are tested in party contests, is the best means of organized expression of principles, and the best safeguard of honest and intelligent government, the primary should so conform to the spirit of the party idea as to preserve rather than destroy parties.

These are grave questions. Wisconsin should be thinking about them. A primary that permits any two or more men to say that a socialist may go to the house of representatives provided a republican shall be sent to the senate, although the principles of the parties are incompatible, makes a joke of the primary—a joke that will one day laugh it out of court. Primary elections are of vital importance to our democracy. We should not lose them for want of intelligent mending. And no resident of Wisconsin who has watched state politics in recent years can doubt that the primary is in danger because of abuses which it permits at the hands of individual bosses. Unless something is done, on a day not far distant, an impatient state will arise in exasperation and dump the primary on the political scrap heap. "A stitch in time saves nine." Better act while there is something left to stitch.

The Coal Remedy

BACK of President Harding's effort to secure an agreement in the coal strike lies an official threat of government seizure and operation of the coal mines. This was carried in news channels which never hazard guesses without official sanction, and thus it comes to the country with a sense of authorization.

That President Harding, to whom every phase of so-called socialistic government activity is distasteful, has permitted this word to go abroad indicates how grave he regards the situation. In addition to the coal strike, which has reduced anthracite production by at least 25 per cent, there is the menace of a railroad strike which seems hardly mitigated by the action of the rail labor board in following its order reducing wages with a decision favorable to the unions establishing breech of contract by operators who farmed out railroad shop work to private interests when regular railroad shops were adequate. Crops are coming on, and will have to be moved. Already the coal shortage is hampering manufacturers. Should the resumption of mining be long delayed; transportation would be overwhelmed, even in the absence of a rail strike. Should the latter develop, there would no end of a business disaster.

It may be said that President Harding's intimation of government seizure is put out as a threat. If so, it must be as a club over the mine owners for the president well knows that government operation is what the unions want. More likely he permitted it to be semi-officially discussed as the expedient to which reluctantly he might be forced as a last resort. Nor is it a remote one. Events point that way. Private railroad ownership has not demonstrated its ability to deal with its labor problems. No basic industry can long be left in the hands of men who deal with it in the medieval way in which the mines are operated. Public service, both as to quality and cost, demands something better. Only repeated emergencies can bring Americans to public ownership, because individualism is deep-seated within us. But where old ways fail, America is not afraid of new. Failure must be established, that is all. Then she will go forward, testing the footing of each step. Sound progress is made slowly. Railroad regulation is established. Government control of mines is the logical next move. After that necessity will motivate and experience will guide. The responsibilities of modern government eventually find its ways and means.

Three Tests For George

BY H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

"No, mother," and Constance shook her bobbed head vigorously, "I am not going to marry George unless I am absolutely sure of myself—and him. I'm too modern and well trained to make a leap in the dark."

"And how," began her mother mildly, "do you propose to make yourself any surer than I already supposed you were, and may I ask, what does George think of all this?"

"George?" Constance answered her mother's second question first. "Why, George won't know anything about it until it's all over. Then, if he has failed, I'll—why, I'll simply say everything is at an end. Better a few disagreeable moments than a lifetime of misery. As to how I'm going to do it, I've decided on three tests which will show conclusively whether he is a man to make one happy. First, is he selfish? Second——"

"George selfish! Why, he's the most unselfish man on the face of the earth!" broke in her mother.

"Oh, I know, mother," said Constance impatiently. "He seems so on the surface, but I'm going to put him really to proof. Then I'll know. Well, second, as I was saying, does he love children and dogs? Third, is he a man's man? Do other men like him?"

"You know they do, Constance," declared Mrs. Peck. "Of all tomfool——"

Constance rose with dignity and the impudence of the present young generation. "This is my marriage, mother," she said coldly, "and I'll attend to it!"

Now her daughter's engagement to George Morse had come to Mrs. Peck as a blessing straight from heaven. That her restless, dare-devil child should give herself to so splendid and dependable a man after dallying with a poet who couldn't sell his poetry, an artist who couldn't paint, a novelist who couldn't write, was cause for great rejoicing. And here was Constance actually tempting fate! Well, she should not wreck her happiness, not if she, her mother, could prevent it!

That evening Mrs. Peck contrived a moment alone with George as he waited for Constance to put a finishing touch or two before coming down to go with him to the annual ladies' night of the one club to which he belonged. And after a few moment's earnest conversation Constance's mother wound up almost tearfully. "Constance would never forgive me, George, if she knew I told you. But I did it for her good!"

"Don't worry, mother," said George. "I'll never give you away. I'm a hundred times obliged and can promise you everything will turn out beautifully!"

At that moment Constance appeared, but strange to say, she was not dressed for attending ladies' night. Clad in short sport skirt, heavy sweater and woolen toque she seemed ready for an evening out of doors.

"George," she began gently, "I don't want to go a bit tonight. Instead, let's go over on Bennett's pond skating. Will you?"

Mrs. Peck gasped. She recognized test No. 1, but marveled at her daughter's temerity in choosing the one social George ever showed interest in. She was thankful indeed that she had warned him.

But what was George saying? Was it possible he had failed to grasp the situation? For George had risen and, hands in his pockets, was glowering, actually glowering at Constance.

"What do you mean by this, Connie? You know I came here to take you to ladies' night. And what's more, I'm going to take you. I'll wait exactly half an hour for you. Otherwise I go alone."

Remarkable to say Constance, assisted by a mother who was inwardly wondering if she had been mistaken in George after all, was ready at the end of the half hour, and head high and chin proudly set marched off with George. The evening was not a particularly happy one.

Nor did Constance's two other carefully planned experiments meet with any more conspicuous success. Surrounding herself with half a dozen youngsters and two dogs just prior to His call the next afternoon, she staged the scene for test No. 2.

George arrived, but instead of falling to and joining in their merry game, he rather peremptorily bade her "get rid of that gang and call off the confounded curs who were yapping at his heels!"

It was almost tearfully that Constance broached test No. 3. She hinted at it to George as they sat out in the couch hammock after the children had been dismissed.

"I couldn't marry any one but a regular 'man's man'," she said, apropos of nothing at all. "I'm so glad you're that!"

"But am I?" said George easily. "I'm sure that isn't the sort of a reputation I have among the fellows in the office. They consider me a regular lady killer! Look at you, for instance! How easily I captured you. And that reminds me; just when is to be our happy wedding day?"

For a moment Constance regarded him queerly. Then, "I'm not sure we are ever going to be married," she said coldly. "I'm not sure it's not all a mistake that we've found out just in time."

"How come?" asked George pleasantly, and Constance thought he seemed very little upset.

"Well, I—I've been testing you," she burst forth with the whole story, while George listened with a smile that was both tender and appreciative. When she had finished and was twisting her handkerchief into a tight little ball that was wet from sprinkling of tears which had accompanied the tale, George reached out with strong arms and gathered Constance to him.

"There, dear," he whispered. "Cry on my shoulder. Do you love me?"

"Y-yes," said Constance.

"Going to marry me?"

"Y-yes," said the girl again.

"Well," said George triumphantly, "just see what that proves! I failed to meet your requirements and yet you love me! That shows I am the one and only man in the world for you. Now, if I'd only known! You see, as a matter of fact, I do like dogs and—but that's another story!"

And George's mother-in-law never told.

The Original of "Huck Finn"

Huckleberry Finn was drawn from real life. Parney Farthing, the original of Mark Twain's most famous character, died a pauper in 1917, having spent the last years of his life in a county almshouse not far from the little town where he and Mark Twain were schoolfellows. So closely was Parney Farthing identified with the hero of the novel that for years he answered to the name of Huck. Parney made the coffin in which he was buried—made it in protest against the outrageous prices of the Coffin Trust.

FITZPATRICK ASKS SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS AT "U. W."

MADISON, Wis.—Dr. E. A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the state board of education Friday urged the organization of school of fine arts at the University of Wisconsin providing for the continual exposure of the students to the influence of the arts, in an address before the graduation class of a local music school.

He said that a duty rests on all people trained in music to help develop a universal appreciation of the art, particularly to offset the present jazz music. Much of this music excites the emotions, he declared, and lets them run riot instead of purifying them as should be its object.

ORGANIZE SOCIETY TO BOOST INTEREST IN NEWSPAPER WORK

Four Hundred High Schools in Middle West Represented in Organization

MADISON, Wis.—To interest high school students in newspaper work is the object of the Central Inter-Scholastic Press association, an organization of high school editors in more than 400 cities of the country.

The organization, which has experienced a rapid growth in the last few months, resulted from a local meeting called two years ago by Prof. W. G. Bleyer, director of the course in journalism at the University of Wisconsin.

Students of journalism here are actively directing the association, which has, however, officers of its own, elected here last November at a meeting attended by 300 high school editors.

Copies of school publications are sent to Prof. Bleyer, who assigns students to criticize each issue for make-up, style, headlines, general content and to suggest possible improvements.

The various school publications are classified and judged, the winning publications having the privilege of carrying their rating on the editorial page. An effort is made to keep editors interested in their work and to show them what other schools are doing.

So many schools are applying for membership in the association that it now is planned to divide the country into district, each of which will hold a convention this year. The first two meetings have been held here with representatives present from the middle western states.

One of the latest organizations to affiliate with the Interscholastic association, is the Illinois High School Press association, which was organized recently at the first annual convention of high school journalists of Illinois at Knox college, Galesburg, Ill.

UNDER THE CAPITOL DOME

Odds and Ends of State Affairs by William J. Anderson

MADISON, Wis.—Why are not the vast water power resources of Wisconsin being developed? This is a timely question in view of the precarious coal situation. Few states have so large an amount of undeveloped water power, yet, here where there is no coal and where there seems to be an increasing demand for steam power the development of hydro electric power is going on very slowly. According to careful compilations made by the engineering department of the railroad commission the total development of water power in the state to date is about 300,000 horse power, while the undeveloped water power that it will be practicable to develop is about 250,000 horse power.

In the production of electric power, for which virtually water power is used one horse power is equivalent to about six tons of coal. There is going to waste therefore each year in this state the equivalent of nearly one and one-half million tons of coal. The cost of transporting this quantity of coal from the nearest mines into Wisconsin amounts to over three and one half million dollars, to say nothing of the original cost per ton at the mines.

On the face of it then the people of the state appear to be losing seven or eight million dollars a year through the non-development of water power. But the actual facts in the case are far from being as bad as the appearance. In the first place if all the undeveloped water power were harnessed at once there would not be any use for it. The hydro electric power in the state is being developed as fast as it can be profitably used. Indeed some of the biggest developments are not making a reasonable return on their investments, and no one is going to invest the large sums needed unless there is a good prospect of getting a good return.

The present water power situation lends itself easily to the uses of the boomer and the campaign orator, but thinking people will remember that, though "the mill will never grind with the water that has passed," it is good policy to let it pass until there is need for the power it will produce.

Apropos of some suggestions made in this correspondence several weeks ago concerning the selection of trees for lawn or street decoration, I give here the list of trees recommended by the American Forestry association to be planted in Wisconsin: Burr oak, Norway maple, green ash, wild cherry, larch, American elm, black walnut, honey locust, black locust. Less desirable: cottonwood, box alder, Scotch pine, Austrian pine, white pine, Norway spruce, Colorado blue spruce, white spruce, red cedar, arbor vitae.

The one who prepared the list was not familiar with tree growth in Wisconsin, or he would have recommended the black ash instead of the green ash, and would not have included box alder in the "less desirable" list. Box alder isn't desirable at all, and the varieties of cottonwood or poplar should have been designated. Among the latter the Carolina poplar and the Balm of Gilead are very desirable trees, the Balm of Gilead for its exquisite fragrance as well as for its looks. When one plants burr oak he must have in mind posterity, for the growth of burr oak during one's lifetime is insignificant compared with that of the American elm, the linden or maple. The most ornamental of all the trees named, for open planting is the black walnut. It is a particularly clean tree and its foliage and shapeliness are very pleasing.

Chairman M. B. Castle of the civil service commission in his findings in the case of the governor's office against Joseph Hopkins severely criticises the governor and his secretary for the attempt to oust Hopkins, who was night telephone operator at the Capitol. Hopkins is a 20-year-old law student, working his way through the university. Mr. Castle quotes the governor's retained attorney to the effect that no evidence was introduced before the civil service commission to show that Hopkins "listened in" when the governor talked. Apparently Hopkins' place was desired by some one else and so the unfounded charge was made. The other two members of the civil service commission and the secretary are Blaine appointees, and may not agree with Castle as to the result of the hearing. The case will probably get into the courts before it is settled. Hopkins is a very trustworthy young fellow, and indignantly denied the charge of the governor's secretary that he had listened in, and refused to resign. The affair has created a good deal of stir as it is taken to indicate that the governor is determined to get his supporters into appointive places, without special regard to the civil service law.

Coal Output Drops

In 1921 the world's production of coal dropped back to the level of production in 1909, with the total output at approximately 1,100,000,000 metric tons.

GERMANY PROTESTS AGAINST SALARIES OF COMMISSIONS

Heavy Overhead Charges Incident to Versailles Treaty Subject of Protest

REPARATIONS COMMISSION RULES GERMANY MUST PAY

Expenses Average 32,600,000 Marks Monthly

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By The Associated Press.—Heavy overhead charges incident to the creation under the Versailles treaty of a number of entente commissions, to supervise the execution by Germany of the stipulation of that convention, have been made the subject of bitter protest by the German representatives who attended the Genoa conference. Copies of the statements which were submitted to that Conference by the Germans have reached Washington, and it is understood that they also have been furnished to almost every foreign office.

One of the rulings of the reparations commission for instance was that all officials and attaches of the entente commission were to be paid by the German government, not on the basis of the German salary and mark, but on the basis of their home pay in the equivalent in marks. Thus the salary of a French division general which had been 33,600 francs last year, had to be paid in about two million German marks, while a British general was rated at four millions. The general who acts as president of one of the commissions received 65,556 marks monthly; a colonel 34,500 marks and even a private soldier was paid 9,660 monthly.

Total of Salaries

The grand total of the salaries of the commissions which Germany has been meeting since the armistice has been sixteen and three-tenths million marks monthly, the statements show. In addition there have been expenses incident to accommodations, etc., amounting to five and a quarter million marks each month.

The membership of the inter-allied control commissions includes six Americans, 220 Belgians, 629 Englishmen, 538 Frenchmen, 139 Italians and 26 Japanese. The proportions are different in the case of the reparation commission to which there are attached 14 Americans, 12 Belgians, 15 Englishmen, 63 Frenchmen, 7 Italians and 2 natives of Madagascar. The expenses of this commission was set down in the statements as averaging 32,600,000 marks monthly.

The restitution commission was set down as costing the German government 2,500,000 marks monthly. It is not generally known that there are three Americans on the inter-allied coal commission and four Americans on the missing research commission.

Cost of Troops

Costs of the maintenance of the troops in occupied German territory paid by Germany aggregate 519 million paper marks monthly, divided between the powers as follows: France 333 millions, Belgium 62 millions, England 73 millions and America 53 millions. For the 26 months up to December, 1920, the aggregate cost was three billions five hundred million marks. The sum of one billion, one hundred million marks of this total is charged to the account of the American troops, one billion, two hundred million to France, one billion even to England, 184 million to Belgium and ten millions to Italy. The approximate cost monthly of the American army of occupation was estimated at forty-two million marks.

Taft Goes to Europe to Study Law

Hints for the Summer

The popular fabric for sports wear is basket-weave cloth. Checks prevail for summer accessories. The handkerchief, parasol, stocking top and silk scarf feature checked materials. Lace mitts, a lace-edged handkerchief and printed Georgette scarf complete the summer costume. Garters are also lace-trimmed. Dyed laces are particularly favored for afternoon frocks—Designer.

AMERICAN LIBRARY IN PARIS IS USED BY FRENCH PEOPLE

PARIS.—The American library in Paris, with 30,000 American volumes on its shelves and its tables covered with American magazines and newspapers, draws 33 per cent of its reading room attendance from French people. It is rapidly becoming the chief connecting link between the literary interests of France and the United States and during the two years of its existence it has greatly stimulated French interest in things American.

At the beginning of 1922 the library funds amounted to 574,000 francs, and it is intended to spend much of this in enlarging existing facilities. A branch in the Latin quarter is planned, and others are contemplated.

The library is used by French ministers and many of the best known French literary, scientific and professional men. It receives dozens of requests a week for information about America. Recently a French architect asked for all available information about skyscrapers, and several literary men came for help in writing biographies of Henry Ford and Secretary Hughes.

HARDING DISCUSSES FARM LEGISLATION WITH CONGRESSMEN

Officials Hopeful of Favorable Reaction to Administration Ship Subsidy Plan

FARM CREDITS ALSO DEBATED AT WHITE HOUSE DINNER

Favor Single Bill for Extension of Credit to Farmers

WASHINGTON. —Administration officials were hopeful Friday of a favorable reaction from the country's agricultural interests to arguments favoring their support of the ship subsidy legislation now pending in congress as presented by President Harding to a group of agricultural leaders.

Discussing the ship subsidy proposal and the relations of agriculture to an adequate merchant marine with a group of farmers representatives at a white house dinner conference Wednesday night, President Harding was said to have emphasized the belief that it was no longer possible for the agricultural interests to be independent of overseas trade.

The question of farm credits also was said to have been discussed at the dinner. The president's guests, after raising the matter of pending legislation designed to avail longer credits to farmer borrowers, were said to have favored consolidation of the various bills for that purpose and the president to have expressed a desire to be helpful in this object.

The dinner also was attended by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Chairman Capper of the senate agricultural bloc and Charles S. Barrett, of the National Farmers union, among the farmers representatives.

VOIGT DENIES HIS FILIBUSTER COST THE U S. BIG SUM

WASHINGTON. — Representative Voigt, republican, Wisconsin, in a statement Friday defended his action in conducting single-handedly a filibuster in the house early this week, for several days and also denied accusations that the filibuster had cost the government $281,000 a day.

"My filibuster did not cost the government a cent except possibly a charge for electric lights during two night sessions," said Mr. Voigt. "The members of the house and all employes are on an annual salary basis which was not decreased or increased by the filibuster. It makes no difference so far as house expenditures are concerned whether it is in session one hour or ten hours each day. It is not too much, in my opinion, to ask that at least one-half the membership of the house shall be present attending to their official business when legislation is under consideration."

DEFEAT OF McCUMBER MAKES BIG DENT IN OLD GUARD CONTROL

apparent recently in favor of the abolition of the seniority rule in the senate. "Regulars" are torn between two emotions—desire to preserve the venerable seniority rule, and fear of radical domination.

If Lynn J. Frazier comes to the senate from North Dakota in McCumber's place, he will be the second Nonpartisan leaguer to reach the upper house, Senator Ladd (N. D.) is the other. If Frazier's political deportment in the senate is no more radical than Ladd's, republican leaders will have no great cause for worry.

Anticipating defeat and conceding it to his colleagues, Senator McCumber accepted his political downfall in sportsmanlike manner. He made no comment on the returns and remained throughout the day at his desk in the senate defending the tariff against democratic assaults.

Named "Farmer's Governor"

FARGO, N. D.—Lynn J. Frazier was virtually unknown in North Dakota until he became the Nonpartisan league candidate for the republican gubernatorial nemination in 1916, the first attempt of the newly organized league to gain control of the state administration.

Successful in the primaries, Mr. Frazier was swept into the governor's chair by an overwhelming vote, leaving his farm in Pembina county to become "the farmers' governor" pledged to a league program of state owned industries that brought the state into international attention.

Frazier was born in Rice county, Minnesota, in 1874, and moved with his parents to Pembina county in 1881 where he obtained his early education.

He graduated from the Crafton, N. D. High school at the age of 17 and entered the University of North Dakota after teaching school and completing the course at Mayville, N. D. Normal.

Elected Three Times

Football followers of the varsity remember Frazier of the 1899, 1900, 1901 teams for he captained the eleven the last two years. Then the death of his father necessitated his return to the farm to assume its management for his mother.

Three times Frazier was elected governor of North Dakota as the choice of the Nonpartisan league, but each time by greatly decreased majorities. Only a few thousand majority was given him in 1920.

Last year the independent or anti-league factions in the state, prompted a recall election held in October which brought about the ousting of Governor Frazier and two other state officials of the league and the election of Governor Nestos and two other independents.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS FIX PAY, RE-ENGAGE TEACHERS MONDAY

Annual Meetings Will be Held in Each District Throughout La Crosse County July 3

Next Monday annual meetings of the various district school boards will be held throughout La Crosse county. At that time salaries for the coming year will be fixed and teachers will be engaged.

A number of counties have already fixed the minimum and maximum wages to be paid teachers for 1922-1923. In Dane county the lowest salary is $80 and the highest $150. Grant county, $75 and $150; Columbia, $80 and $135; Kenosha, $100 and $150. State graded school salaries run as high as $162.50. The state superintendent of public instruction reports that more rural school salaries are being increased than decreased throughout Wisconsin.

Mrs. Blanche Chamberlain, county superintendent of schools, announced Friday that the Western Wisconsin Teachers' association would meet in La Crosse March 15-16, next year.

public official, non-partisan in his official acts, and has lead the city of La Crosse and its Common Council through eight years of the most successful municipal activities in the history of the city. Under his administration the city of La Crosse has improved its public schools by an expenditure of nearly $2,000,000, kept up its street improvements, perfected the water system, met all the advancing costs in each department, paid adequate salaries to the 500 employees, reduced its bonded indebtedness with a tax mill assessment not exceeding 26 mills for all purposes in any one year, and in every year except one the tax rate has been less than 26 mills.

His Tax Plan

"The Bentley plan of printing real estate assessments is largely responsible for the low tax rate and the present enviable credit enjoyed by the city of La Crosse. The entire indebtedness of the city of La Crosse is about two percent of its valuation. The Bentley plan of publicity for tax burdens is supported by his claim that "people never kick about taxes if the burden is equally divided and a full dollar's worth of value is obtained for ever 100 cents expended."

"Mr. Bentley is at present time president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, serving his third term in that organization, which is an educational association whose membership of over 500 is made up entirely of city officials in the state of Wisconsin. He is also a Supreme Director in the Mystic Workers of the World, a large fraternal insurance society, conducting business on an adequate rate basis. Mr. Bentley was chairman of the local board and had charge of the administration of the selective service law during the war, and his board was named by headquarters officials as one of the most competent, and with as good an administrative record as any local board in the state.

"The city of La Crosse was the first city to adopt Mr. Bentley's plan of assessing cost of street improvements to abuting property, based entirely upon actual benefits created. La Crosse assesses to abutting property only the cost of grading, curb and gutter and concrete foundation for new pavement. The actual wearing surface, be it brick, macadam, or asphaltic concrete, or anything else, put down, is paid for out of the general expense account of the whole city, on the theory that the wearing surface is a benefit to the city as a whole and to traffic in a larger sense, than it is to abutting property.

"Mr. Bentley did not support Henry Mochlenpah for governor four years ago because he felt that Mr. Mochlenpah was seeking support from the disappointed wing of the Republican party, to the detriment of other Democratic candidates, he being a candidate for Congress in the Seventh District that year.

The Eighteenth Amendment

"The plank adopted by the Democratic Conference offers the best means of ascertaining whether or not the 18th Amendment and resulting legislation, is disapproved of by a large majority of our voters as is so generally claimed. There can be no effective argument against the plan to seek expression on the subject at the Spring elections in 1923, safely removed from local county, state and National politics.

"My personal opinion is not the most important, but I dislike most of all a political fence rider, and believing that every voter is entitled to know, frankly I am glad to inform all that I favor the repeal of, or an amendment to, the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and legislation interpreting it so as to permit the lawful use of beverages containing more than one half of one percent alcohol, with such control of its distribution as will eliminate former evils complained of before its passage as well as eliminate present evils, equally or more objectionable, resulting from its passage.

"I am in favor of submitting in regular legal and orderly form to the voters of Wisconsin at the 1923 spring election, the question as to whether they approve of the Eighteenth Amendment and its interpredation by the Volstead and Severson Acts.

Right of Electors

"I firmly defend the right to petition for the repeal of unwelcome laws and will gladly submit to the will of the majority. I just as firmly disapprove of all efforts to prevent the unhindered expression of the majority upon the desirability of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"If I am to be slanderously branded 'wet' because I favor ascertaining the will of the majority, and for defending the right of the majority to rule, then I shall hopefully wait for that hour to come when to have been branded 'wet' will indicate distinctive and valuable service in the righteous fight against minority class legislation.

"I pledge my best efforts in a war against legislative innovations defining economical, social or religous obligations that are claimed to be too 'delicate' for submission to majority rule, put over with the aid of highly financed, tyrannical groups whose vision is too narow to see and whose heart is untuned to hear the innocent appeal of the masses begging for the same consideration in the legislative halls as is given the more active selfish groups."

RAID HAIRPIN STANDS

The universality of the acquisitive instinct is shown by the number of women who take away hairpins from an uptown hairdressing establishment. Each cubicle contains a tray on which are scattered varicolored hairpins. A member of the fair sex may have her coiffure surfeited with the wiry holders, yet she will stuff what she can find into her bag.

"It eez the habit, perhaps," sighed the artist of the wave, "nor do ze ladies care what color their hair may be; dark pins or light pins, it eez all the same to them."—Chicago Journal.

COAL MINE DEATHS HIGHER THIS YEAR MAY TOTAL IS 74

WASHINGTON.—Deaths at coal mines during the first five months of this year numbered 722, a rate of 3.90 compared with 4.15 for the same period last year, the bureau of mines announced Friday. There were 74 deaths during the month of May.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE FOR TOBACCO POOL CLOSES ON FRIDAY

MADISON, Wis.—The drive for membership in the proposed northern Wisconsin tobacco pool will be closed Friday night by the state department of markets. Whether seventy-five per cent of the total tobacco acreage of Wisconsin, needed to assure the co operative marketing of the 1922 crop, has been contracted for by the pool, will not be known for several days, L. G. Foster deputy commissioner of markets in charge of the organization work said.

He expressed the opinion, however, that from indications the response of Wisconsin farmers had been such as to assure success of the enterprise Should the pool be perfected during the summer loans totalling over $5,000,000 would be required from bankers of the state to meet marketing costs. This financial support has been assured, according to Mr. Foster.

PROCEED WITH STRIKE PLANS FOR SATURDAY

Railway executives looked upon the union strike over the $60,000,000 pay cut due Saturday, and the modification of rules affecting overtime pay, as a matter strictly between the unions and the board. Abolition of contracting indulged by 23 roads, according to the board's records, would remove the third grievance over which the 400,000 shopmen cast their strike ballots.

Hope to Avert Strike

Eyes of the railway world centered Friday on the United States railroad labor board as the only visible agency to avert the nationwide strike of 400,000 shopmen authorized by their leaders to lay down their tools at 10 a. m. Saturday.

When the labor board stepped into the breach Thursday to intervene as an arm of the government by summoning before it officials of the unions and railway executives, new hopes rose over the horizon—hopes that the board would repeat its successful mediations of last October when it averted a nation-wide rail strike on the eve of the threatened walkout.

Compromise is Rumored

Rumors of a compromise, to be sealed by the labor board at the meeting, permeated railway circles and received wide circulation.

The executives summoned to the conference with the board were from twenty-three roads charged by employes with illegally contracting shop work in violation of the board's orders. Officials of 201 class one roads who protested that a strike on their lines over the contract controversy was unjustified because they had not followed the practice of farming out shopwork, where also invited to attend the meeting.

Reports from some centers were that not all shopmen planned to respond to the strike call.

Won't Tie Up Traffic

Some rail oficials contended still that a shopmen's scrike would not tie up transportation, "at least for some considerable time. Train service employes—the Big Four brotherhoods and the telegraphers, are engaged in no controversy with the roads. Their only statement was that they would perform only their regular duties and would decline to do any work usually performed by other classes of employes.

Wage reductions effective Saturday aggregate approximately $135,000,000. Over one million railway employes will feel the stash.

The last ballots in the shopmen's referendum were due Friday.

Track Men Halt Order

DETROIT, Mich.—By The Associated Press.—Strike orders for 100,000 maintenance of way employes, comprising the working forces of 98 percent of the roads of the country, were held up here Friday at the general headquarters of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers, pending the conference of union leaders and rail executives called in Chicago by the United States railroad labor board.

A rupture in the negotiations could be followed "in thirty minutes" by the release of the strike order, union officials here declared, stating the notices were ready to be put on the wires for all chairmen of the Brotherhood and the fourteen district vice presidents, who would in turn be delegated to pass on the call to minor officers of the union.

The only roads that would be exempt are some of the smaller ones, it was said and the only maintenance men not coming under the provisions of the order are crossing watchmen and drawbridge tenders.

Prior to his departure Thursday night for Chicago, E. F. Grable, grand president of the brotherhood, let it be known that in the event the negotiations fail he would immediately get in touch with headquarters here and issue instructions to let the strike call go out.

In postponing action however, President Grable notified the labor board he was taking it for granted the wage reduction order also would be held up.

WHAT'S THE USE?

William Bross Lloyd, the millionaire communist, said in an address in Springfield:

"Rich men thing that success means one thing only—riches. Bah.

"A millionaire shirtwaist manufacturer who had got rich out of the sweated labor of young girls was bragging on a California golf club veranda to a goup of young men.

"'Look at me', he said, sticking his thumbs in the armholes of his vest. "Twenty years ago I hadn't a dollar and look at me now! See what I've done for myself!"

"A young minister looked at him coldly and sind,

"'Yes, you seem to have done for yourself, all right'."—Los Angeles Times.

MILLS INCREASE WAGES

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass.—Notice was posted Friday in the mills of the Hamilton Woolen company of this city, that beginning July 10, when work is resumed after a ten days' vacation, the pay of all the employes would be increased ten per cent.

Six weeks ago the wages were cut 20 per cent.

PIONEER STORE DRAWS THOUSANDS TO PIONEER HALL

Big Attendance and Keen Interest Marks Second Night of the Event

The Pioneer Store, the big sales and amusement event staged to raise the debt on Pioneer hall, continues to draw thousands to the hall at Fifth and Market streets. Last night's crowd was even larger than on the opening night, and all the stands did a thriving business. The Pioneer Store will be open again tonight and Saturday night.

OBJECTED TO SHOW PILLOWS

"Did you have a nice week-end?" inquired the sweet young thing brightly of the popular bachelor.

"O, I suppose you might say so," he grumbled, with unexpected ill humor. "But I'd like to know how anybody can have a nice week-end when he can't sleep."

"What is the matter?"

"O, the usual thing—the guest pillow. How many times have I had a good night in an otherwise pleasant and comfortable room ruined by an elephantine pillow. If you lay just your head on it you break your neck; if you try to ease the slant by moving it down under your shoulder you might as well be sitting up.

"For themselves people have decently low, soft, comfortable things which are tucked out of sight in the daytime. But in the guest room the show pillows are the only pillows provided."—New York Sun.

GRIFFITH RESENTS LANDIS "LECTURE" TO BALL PLAYERS

No Such Talks Will be Given to His Men Declares Washington American Team Head

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American league club Friday in a statement, took exception to the reported lecture recently given by K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, to members of the New York and Boston American league clubs, declaring he considered Judge Landis' remarks that the ball players must not gamble, bootleg or carouse around at night" a direct insult to 98 per cent of the ball players of the country.

Noting that Judge Landis' talk to the Yankees and Red Sox had been announced as the first of a series of similar talks, President Griffith declared "there will be no lectures of the above mentioned kind perpetrated on the players of the Washington club."

This last statement of the Washington club president was considered in baseball circles here as a virtual defiance of the high commissioner of baseball, and aroused considerable interest in view of the rule in the new governing code of organized baseball which prohibits public criticism by the magnates of the commissioner's actions.

MOONSHINE MAKES NEW RECORDS FOR DEATH AND CRIME

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—New high records were established during June by moonshine whiskey in both the coroner's office and police headquarters here. Ten deaths are directly traceable to drink, Frank Lucking, coroner, reports, and the record number of arrests for a month will be reported Saturday, when the monthly report of the police department is made public. The major portion of the police report will be devoted to crimes in which moonshine played a part. Nine death were caused by moonshine in May, it was said.

FAMOUS CHICAGO CLUB WOMAN DIES THURSDAY IN EAST

Mrs. Henrotin was Twice President of General Federation of Women's Clubs

CHICAGO, Ill.—Mrs. Charles Henrotin, twice president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, social worker and society woman, died Thursday morning at the home of her son Edward, at Cherry Plain, N. Y., after an illness of several months. Her body will be brought here Sunday and buried in Rosehill cemetery, with services at 4:45 o'clock.

Born in Portland, Maine, in 1842, a daughter of Edward Eyam Martin, she came to Chicago in 1868, where she married Charles Henrotin, a well known broker and banker, who also served as Belgian consul for a number of years. Mr. Henrotin died in 1914.

Led Active Life

During the Columbian exposition here Mrs. Henrotin was vice president of the congress auxiliary. During the latter years of her life she interested herself in the upbuilding of the Illinois Industrial School for Girls, and was president also of the Women's Trade Union League of America.

So widespread was Mrs. Henrotin's fame as a welfare worker that she was accorded the Order of the Palm from the French and the Academique and the Legion of Honor by the Belgian governments.

JENNY LIND'S "PARLOR CAR"

Although she never shone as an inventor, Jenny Lind is responsible for the parlor car to a great degree. When the "Swedish Nightingale" was brought to this country by P. T. Barnum she spent much of her time in traveling from city to city; and, to reduce the uncomfortableness of touring to a minimum, she had the seat of an ordinary car removed and the whole furnished with chairs, tables and other pieces of furniture appropriate to a parlor.

She called it her "parlor car," and from that term sprang the designation still applied to coaches de luxe on the rail.

The Sturgeon's Ancient Lineage

The sturgeon is said to be a relic of past ages and is rapidly undergoing changes of habits and structure although it still possess some of its primeval physical characteristics showing an intermediate condition like the shark. There are land-locked sturgeon in the Great lakes which weigh one hundred pounds while those of the Pacific Coast measure ten feet and weight 1000 pounds. Those of the Atlantic are slightly smaller than the latter.

AUDITORIUM ACOUSTICS ARE AFFECTED BY WOMEN'S CLOTHING ACCORDING TO STATEMENT OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR

CHICAGO, Ill.—Women's modes have a direct effect on auditorium acoustics, according to Prof. F. R. Watson of the department of physics of the University of Illinois. "Speakers and singers can be heard more easily when their audience is composed chiefly of women than when it is preponderately masculine," he said. "This is because women, as experiments have shown, absorbed more sound than men, owing to the clothing worn."

Prof. Watson, who analyzed the acoustics properties of the Municipal Pier here, and whose recommendations for improvements were adopted by the city authorities, has devised an instrument that simplifies acoustic analyses. It is an arc-light reflector, which sends its hissing together with a beam of light to inaccessible ceiling surfaces to determine the presence and paths of any echoes. As the sounds and the light take the same path, the light indicates the point in the ceiling surface where the sound strikes, and the angle of sound reflection is then mathematically computed. A standard organ pipe is blown and the time taken for the sound to die out is measured with a stop-watch.

"The usual trouble in an auditorium," said Prof. Watson, "results from the fact that the walls do not absorb sound to any great extent, and consequently the word uttered by the speaker takes a long time to die out. In the meantime other words are spoken that become confused with the sound of the first words. In some cases curved walls produce echoes and concentrate the sound in unexpected ways. Sound-absorbing materials are the usual corrective; cushions in the seats are quite efficient, but in some cases hair felt should be placed on the walls. The amount of felt needed is readily calculated from the acoustic properties of the room.

"In a small room there is almost never any difficulty, but in large rooms the troubles increase, so that it is necessary to add sound absorbing materials, in addition to the natural furnishings. The closer the walls are to each other, the more numerous are the reflections of sound per second, and the more rapid is the absorbtion of sound.

"Sound travels from a speaker at the rate of about a fifth of a mile a second. It is reflected from the walls of a room and very rapidly fills the entire volume. Because its action is a mystery to many laymen, though the theory has been carefully worked out by scientists, wrong ideas have grown up about acoustics.

"For example, as much as seven miles of wire has been strung in an auditorium although wires as a practical corrective for acoustic difficulties are useless."

HERMIT PRIEST HAS BEEN 36 YEARS WITH LEPERS ON MOLOKAI

Brother Dutton Celebrates 79th Birthday; Finds Happiness in Aiding Sufferers

HONOLULU, T. H.—Brother Dutton, the "hermit priest of Molokai," the leper island of the Hawaiian group, celebrated his 79th birthday and his 36th year of labor among the exiled inhabitants of the colony on the rock-bound peninsula of Kalawao recently, according to messages to friends in Honolulu.

"I am still happy and the outside world has no attraction for me," wrote the successor to the famous martyr-priest, Father Damien, who died, a victim of leprosy after years of devotion to the care of the Kalawao exiles. "I find my duty and my pleasure in trying to ease the sufferings of stricken humanity," Brother Dutton added.

The life story of Brother Dutton is unique, according to Honolulu friends. He has never set a foot off the lonely isle since his arrival there 36 years ago to work with Father Damien. Once a soldier, he retired with the rank of captain after the civil war. He was "debonair, a lover of the pleasures of life, a Beau Brummel and he sowed his wild oats until he was 35 years old." Then he concluded that "his life had been wasted and he must salvage it through penance."

As a convert to Catholicism, he was baptized at the Trappist monastery at Gethsemane, Kentucky. He determined to bury himself from the world and to spend the remainder of his days in self abnegation.

In the Redemption monastery in New Orleans he read a magazine article describing the life of Father Damien on Molokai. He decided that his life should be devoted to the care of the lepers, and he sailed from San Francisco in 1886. When Father Damien died, he took over all of his duties.

No mother nursed her children with more tender care than Brother Dutton bestows on his charges, visitors to the colony have said. In life he comforts them in body and ministers to their spiritual needs.

Chance of a Lifetime

The occupants of the parlor car of the limited were startled by the abrupt entrance of two masked bandits.

"Throw up yer hands!" commanded the bigger of the two. "We're gonna rob all the gents and kiss all the gals."

"No, pardner," remonstrated the smaller one, gallantly. "We'll rob the gents, but we'll leave the ladies alone."

"Mind your own business, young fellow," snapped a female passenger of uncertain age. "The big man is robbing the train."—American Legion Weekly.

Glad the Hand That Sports An Embroidered Glove!

By MARIAN HALE

Gloves, like shoes, have gone wild this season. You simply can't tell where you will find them.

In many cases, of course, you won't find them at all. The younger generation has never taken to gloves as seriously as the older one did.

But for such a cling to the custom. Fashion has certainly contrived some novel effects.

The sort of embroidery that used to be seen on doilies and sofa pillows a decade ago seems to have turned up on long white kid gloves.

At one of the smartest shops I saw rambler roses, in natural colors, rambling up the length of a pair of long white gloves until they reached the shoulder.

On another pair bachelor buttons blossomed in such profusion as is rarely seen outside an old-fashioned garden.

Wheat, that seemed just ripe for harvesting, was used to decorate another pair. Birds and beasts are employed, too.

The embroidery begins where the old conventional three bars used to be stationed so primly.

Some Other Varieties

Sport gloves are more apt to be trimmed with strappings of dark leather on white, or light on dark. Sometimes they are perforated with designs.

The beaded glove is new this season. It matches the beaded stocking that is also a newcomer. Sometimes the design is used only over the back of the hand, but often the whole upper part of the long glove is decorated with crystal or many colored beads.

Spangled gloves, too, are new. They carry out a design in sequins. Usually they are gold or silver, and are used on long white kid gloves.

Behold, Lace Mits!

Lace mits are prim looking affairs and do not seem to have much in common with this generation, but they are shown at the smart shops. Often they are of the most cobwebby laces.

Silk gloves seem to be embroidered most often in self colors, or ruffled or fringed for trimming.

The woman who rules with an iron hand will never be suspected of it if she avails herself of the season's offerings in coverings.

BOY SHOOTS BOY WHO CALLED HIM "MONKEY FACE"

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A boyish taunt hurled across the street at two lads from another neighborhood resulted in the shooting to death of Peter Carramusa, 9, at his home here Thursday, according to the story of the shooting as gathered by the police. Two boys, George Hurlbut, 9, and Sherman Hanna, 10, were arrested later in connection with the affair.

Peter and his 5-year-old brother were playing in their yard when they noticed two youngsters across the street to whom Peter called "Monkey face." With that one of the boys raised the rifle with which he had been shooting birds and aiming at Peter fired. Te lad died less than an hour later in a hospital, having been shot just above the heart.

CUT RATE WAR BY COAST STEAMSHIP LINES IS STARTED

U. S. Lines to Meet all Rate Reductions of Other Lines Announces Washington

NEW YORK.—What is described as a "modified rate war," with virtual open rates in all intercoastal commerce, was in effect here Friday. Members of the intercoastal freight conference decided yesterday they would stick together and meet rate cuts individually.

This action was taken at a meeting called to consider the situation precipitated by the withdrawal of the American-Hawaiian Steamship company from the conference. The break was followed by a general lowering of rates 20 to 25 per cent, though none of the lines affected would give out their schedules. Each company was acting on its own initiative and there was a wide divergence in quotations.

U. S. to Meet the Cuts

WASHINGTON D. C.—Shipping board vessels will meet any new competitive conditions resulting from withdrawals from the Atlantic intercoastal freight conference, it was announced officially today. The board added, however, that there was "no intention of unnecessarily cutting rates."

AVery Short Term of Office

To be Premier of France is to hold the most responsible office in the government but to be almost certain of holding it for only a short term. France recently got its sixty-seventh Premier in fifty-one years; so the average term of office has been only nine months. M. Clemenceau's two terms made him Premier longer than any other man—four years and eleven months altogether.

Cutting It Close

ARMY DRAFT BOARD STATISTICS SHOW MENTAL DEFECTIVES

Number of Morons in New York State Today Estimated at About 45,000

TESTS ARE APPLIED IN SCHOOLS TO DETECT LOWER MENTALITIES

Many Morons Become Useful Members of Society

NEW YORK—The word "moron," which criminologists as well as newspaper headline writers frequently use to designate a person of morbidly criminal tendencies, is defined in a bulletin issued by the State Charities Aid association.

"Moron," they say, comes from the Greek "moros," meaning "fool." And the word, as applied by psychiatrists and mental specialists, means just that—"fool."

It is not applied to insane persons, to lunatics, imbeciles or idiots, but to the considerate percentage of the population whose limited reasoning power places them on the great border line of mental deficiency.

Before the word "moron" was into general use such persons were called "defectives." They were those who, if left to shift for themselves, usually became "liabilities to society."

Figuring from statistics gathered by army draft boards the state association estimates that there are 45,000 mental defectives—morons—in New York state today. This would indicate says the report, that one person in every 250 is mentally deficient and incapable of passing sound judgments as to what is right or wrong.

Of this number 5,200 are in state institutions; 500 are in colonies attached to such institutions, and 7,500 are enrolled in special classes in public schools. This leaves some 31,000 without any special supervision—at large in all walks of life. Describing the defective the charities association says:

"He is often unable to adjust himself to permanent employment and is habitually changing his job. He is tremendously responsive to suggestion and is thus particularly susceptible to the criminal influence of others.

Many Criminals Defective

"Nearly all the attempts at assassination of prominent men in recent years and of criminal assaults with a sexual phase have been the work of mental deficients. A moron killed President McKinley and another tried to kill Roosevelt. A moron tried to kill Mayor Mitchell and shot Corporation Counsel Polk. Mayor Gaynor was shot by another defective."

There is a distinct difference between mental deficiency and insanity, it is pointed out. They have little in common. Insanity is a mental disease which is curable in at least 25 per cent of cases and preventable in 40 per cent.

A moron or mental defective is a person who definitely lacks brain capacity. The condition usually is inherited and cannot be cured, for, say the psychiatrists, "science cannot add what nature has omitted." In other words, an adult moron is just a man or woman with the brain of a child.

The schools are considered the best sorting pen for the discovery of the defectives. There he automatically is separated from the children of normal intelligence. Perhaps he progresses to the sixth grade without displaying any lack of the power to absorb knowledge. Then he falls behind. He doesn't seem able to learn any more; his classmates go on, while he remains, vainly trying to absorb his lessons, but without success.

Should he continue in school at this time the chances are he will become an incorrigible—the sort of overgrown bully who far outstrips his playmate in size and strength, but who is a dwarf in the classroom. Or if he leaves school he is apt to join the class of easily-led criminals, unguided by any sense of right or wrong, wholly irresponsible, who go from misdemeanor to felony and thence to the electric chair or to Matteawan.

At the period of arrested development psychiatrists claim to be able to pick out the defective by their reaction to certain simple questions, included in the Binet-Simon measuring scale of intelligence. In the vocabulary test the examiner may say: "I want to find out how many words you know. Listen, and when I say a word you tell me what is means." The word "nerve" comes early in this test. Although it is understood that to define the physical organism is a matter for the adult mind, it has found that the normal child of eight years will answer with "You've got a nerve," or something similar which is scored as a normal reaction.

Another test is known as "Detecting Absurdities." Here the examiner may say, "Yesterday the police found the body of a girl cut into 18 pieces. They believe she killed herself."

The sub-normal, the defective or "moron" will probably react with this exclamation "Think she killed herself! They know she did!" Or it may be, "She was a foolish girl to kill herself. No girl would do that unless she was crazy."

Where do the defective come from? Are they just accidents of birth? The answer to this question is best illustrated in the story of the Kallakaks.

About 1770 Martin Kallakak, a young man of good family who was serving in George Washington's army, met a feeble-minded girl and became the father of a feeble-minded son. Later he married a normal woman. The history of the two families that go back to Martin Kallakak have been accurately traced.

The feeble-minded woman had 480 descendants, most of whom have been paupers, criminals, immoral women and drunkards. The normal woman had about on equal number of descendants, all of whom have been worthy members of their communities and some of whom have attained to positions of public eminence.

Given a chance, however, the moron often becomes a useful member of society. Sometimes he displays a rare aptitude for the simpler branches of mechanics. Usually it is something manual although cases have been known of mental defectives who displayed rare talents with palette and brush.

THE ADVANTAGES OF RAILROAD MEN

Mose, a negro employed around the freight-yard, had been hit by a shifting-engine and his parts so widely dispersed that they had put him down as a total loss. Almost before the engine slowed down the claim-agent was on his job, and had the widow in tow, leading her toward the office.

With Saluda was Chloe, a back-fence friend. When the trio reached the railroad office, the agent produced some papers and began filling them in.

"Now, then, Saluda," he said, "all you have to do is to sign right here, agreeing to bring no action against the company, and I will make you a present of these five nice, new one-hundred-dollar bills."

Saluda's eyes bulged out like a crab's. Chloe turned to her and gasped.

"Law' sakes alive, chile, what yo'-all gonna do wif all dat money?"

"Oh, Ah'll buy chickens an' watermillions an' a new house an' 'bout a hundred dresses an' jes' whatevah Ah needs fo' de rest er mah life."

Why Four Years' Study For Osteopathic Physicians?

No Osteopathic physician can enter practice without four full school years of intensive training.

The reason for this is important.

A complete and unquestionable knowledge of every part of the body is absolutely essential. He must know these parts intimately—their structure—the work they are intended to perform—and the manner in which they do that work.

He must study carefully every muscle, every bone, every nerve.

He must study every known fact with reference to the causes of disease and sickness. He must prepare himself until his ability to treat these by Osteopathic methods is beyond all doubt.

Before he is permitted to term himself a doctor he must have proved in clinics that he knows and can do all this successfully.

It takes four long years for this preparation. True, it is a difficult program. But the men who earn the title of Doctor by meeting these requirements are capable and competent. They are worthy of your confidence.

When you think of Osteopathy remember its success has been due to the extreme care with which its physicians are trained.

ANCIENT PHYSICIANS KNEW OF HEART AND ITS USES IS CLAIM

Egyptians Performed Operations According to Studies of Prof. J. H. Breasted of Chicago

PROF. BREASTED WILL DISCUSS FINDINGS IN PARIS JULY 12

Paper Will be Published With Articles by Other Scholars

CHICAGO, Ill.—Ezyptian physicians in the days of the Hebrew patriarchs knew that the heart is the center of a system through which its pulsations are felt. Besides muttering incantations, they performed operations, made diagnoses, catalogued cases and verdicts, and pursued investigations in a scientific spirit, according to a study of the Edwin Smith Papyrus made by Prof. J. H. Breasted of the University of Chicago.

Prof. Breasted will discuss the papyrus at the Champollion Centenary at Paris on July 12, and his paper will be published in one of two volumes, one containing articles by scholars of France, the second, articles by scholars of other countries, which are to be prepared in honor of Champollion.

In a preliminary account of less technical nature appearing in the quarterly bulletin of the New York Historical society, which owns the papyrus, Prof. Breasted declared that the ancient document lay in a coffin for "some three and a half millenniums." Pointing out that it was discovered by an American, Edwin Smith, the Chicago orientalist asserted that it contained "incomparably the most important body of medical knowledge which has survived to us from the ancient Orient anywhere." He explained that whereas the other known ancient Egyptian medical documents were "hodgepodges of recipes dominated by magics," part of the Smith papyrus contained a systematic organization and dismissal of cases.

The passage about the heart reads in part: "There is in it (the heart) a canal leading to every member of the body. Concerning these of the physician . . . places the fingers on the back of the head, on the hands, on the pulses, on the legs, he discovers the heart, for the heart leads to every member and . . . it beats (directly) speaks in the canals of every member." Dr. Breasted said that although a similar account is given in the Papyrus Ebers, the account in this papyrus is longer, and "forms an explanatory gloss appended to a case of a wound in the head—apparently in an effort to account for disturbances carried throughout the body, though resulting from the seemingly local trouble in the head. This effort to reach a scientific explanation of the observed conditions illustrates the physician's interest in the scientific aspects of his subject, which we find throughout this venerable document."

The papyrus reveals a tendency to trust more to operations than to drugs, and a disposition to co-operate with nature which Prof. Breasted considers extraordinarily advanced. For example, the practitioner is advised in certain cases "to treat the patients in his fingers," meaning "to put him on his accustomed food without giving him medical treatment." Prof. Breasted suggested that the idiom was derived from the custom of eating with the fingers, and observed, "The clerks of English 5,000 years hence will doubtless find phrases about food, like 'grab-stakes,' quite as puzzling."

The text contains directions for operations on fractures and dislocations in the head and neck.

Part of the papyrus was sold to Mr. Smith in January, 1862, by Egyptians who had ransacked a tomb. Two months later they sold him a complete roll patched together from rubbish which they gave the appearance of a papyrus by wrapping around it and going in places included fragments which they had stripped from the genuine roll. Mr. Smith recognized and rescued the new fragments, which contained the discussion of the heart and its system of canals.

KNEW NO BOSS BY THAT NAME

Office politics are not unknown even in the government bureaus. Indeed, though perhaps this should be whispered maybe they're better known there than anywhere else.

A bright young man holds down a very responsible job in one government unit and holds it down very capably. His nominal superior is generally recognized as merely a figurehead. Relations between the two are a bit strained.

The other day a Washingtonian, talking of the bright young man, remarked: "I nearly ran down your boss the other day in Scott circle." And he mentioned the boss by name.

The young man looked blank. "Have I a boss by that name?" he asked. "Oh, yes—I know whom you mean. We have a dead man up at the shop by that name."—Washington Post.

WINNERS IN BALLOON RACE

Major Oscar Westover, army flier (center), has been officially named winner of the national balloon race held recently at Milwaukee. Second place went to Captain H. E. Honeywell (left), civilian pilot from St. Louis, and third to Lieut. W. F. Reed, navy balloonist (right). The three, by winning the three top places, become American entrants for the international races. Major Westover carried in his balloon a new wireless outfit with which the army is secretly experimenting.

LOW PRICES PAID FOR CARRIAGES OF GERMAN EX-KAISER

SCHEVENINGEN, Holland.— By the Associated Press. — Only 3,700 guilders will go into the coffers of former Emperor William of Germany through the sale at public auction of three sala carriages bearing the Hohenzollern crest.

Scores of Dutch undertakers attended the sale Thursday but all of them agreed they could not use the showy carriages in their business without first repainting them, consequently the bids were low.

HIS LIFE AMONG THE LEPERS

A flood of congratulatory messages from all over the world was recently showered upon Father Dutton upon the occasion of his 79th birthday anniversary and the completion of his 37th year spent among the lepers on the Island of Molokai, the leper settlement in the Pacific. Formerly a man of the world, he embraced the Catholic Church in his 35th year. He was baptized at a Trappist monastery at Gethsemane, Ky., and began to occupy himself with prayer and fasting and other ascetic practices.

While in a Redemptorist monastery at New Orleans he happened to read a magazine article describing the life of the heroic priest, Father Damien, on the leper Island of Molokai. Almost immediately he sailed for Hawaii and the leper island, and there he has remained. He could come to Honolulu if he wished, for he is immune from the disease. But he is content to stay within an area of a few square rods, where he treads a well-worn path in his daily routine of duty. Although isolated he follows world events with interest and is a student of economics and political history.

The cause of his sudden change from a man of the world to a recluse is enveloped in mystery —a mystery which has been the theme for many a tale. He himself merely says that he realized his folly and decided to redeem himself during the remainder of his life; but others have alleged a blighted romance as the real reason for his doffing the garb of a man of the world and donning the sombre garments of a lay brother.

REST—FOR WOMEN

When you lie down to rest, let down your hair. Hair gets tired, just as nerves do. Release it from pins and its wonted position. Hair would be stronger and silkier if its owner would only remember to give it a rest now and then. If you wear it dressed high and refuse to wear it down in pigtails at night—nice loosely braided pigtails, becoming they are too—then at least dress it low when you go to sleep, and if low in the daytime, then high at night. And when you lie down for your half-hour in the afternoon—which every woman should do if she wants to keep her look of youth—unless, of course, she gets up very late in the morning—let your hair down, flowing around you.—Delineator.

BADGER TO ACT AS JUDGE AT BRAZILIAN LIVESTOCK EXHIBIT

MADISON—George C. Humphrey, Wisconsin agricultural college, will be one of the judges chosen from the United States who will serve at the Brazilian International Livestock exposition, to be held at Rio de Janeiro from September 20 to 30th. Greater facilities for promoting cattle trade between South American and the United States are expected to come from this exposition.

WILLIAMSON COUNTY REPORTED BACK TO NORMAL CONDITIONS

One Arrest Made on Charge of Threats Against Mine Maintenance Men

HERRIN, Ill.—By the Associated Press. — Everything was reported quiet in the Williamson county mining field Thursday and the region apparently has returned to normal after the war between striking union miners and non-union workers last week.

A grand jury investigation of the disorders has been called to start July 10 to bring the parties responsible for the massacre to justice.

Only one arrest has been made, that of a union miner at Carterville on a charge of having threatened maintenance men at several mines. No arrests have been made in connection with the slaughter of strike-breakers.

AT THE AERIAL MEET—1932

Air Squadrons A and B were having a desperately contested meet, the issue depending upon the very last event. As this concluded, the members of Squadron B burst into a tremendous cheer and dashed for town to celebrate the victory. One of them was halted by a curious pedestrian.

"Win the meet?" he asked.

"I'll say so," cried the flyer hilariously. "Very last thing on the program. Private Fishface broke the time record for the ten-thousand-feet parachute drop."

"That's fine. What was his time? Isn't he very much elated?"

"'Bout six seconds. No-o-o-o, you couldn't hardly say he's elated—not just now. You see, his parachute wouldn't open."—American Legion Weekly.

ON THE FARM

Once the farmer swabbed his wheat with the cradle and raked and bound it by hand. Then the horse-drawn reaper appeared, then the McCormick binder, and finally the great mechanical tractors of the present, each of which haul two binders. Once, also, the antiquated flail "resounded from morning to night" on the best of the farms. Then horses were used to tread on the straw, and then came the treadmill thresher, the last of which went out some fifteen years ago. Today tractor threshers do the work.

JAZZ KING MAKES $800,000 IN FIVE YEARS!

By ROY GIBBONS

CHICAGO.—"Blow your own horn, sonny, and blow it hard!"

This was the advice the town's richest citizen in Adrian, Mich., gave to Isham Jones 12 years ago.

Jones had gone to the moneybags asking the formula for a short cut to great wealth.

Today Jones owns a palatial home and a fleet of automobiles and has servants and all the trappings of wealth. And his bank account is swelling so fast that he can hardly keep track of it.

"Simple," says Jones, "I blow my own horn—I mean my saxophone."

To the world of music Jones is what Charlie Chaplin is to the film.

His nickname is "King Oompah."

That's because he's probably the highest paid jazz orchestra leader in the country.

A loop hotel here pays him $3,500 a week to play in its restaurant two hours an evening.

Phonograph companies are clamoring for his services to make jazz records for them.

During the last five years Jones and his saxophone have accumulated over $800,000 in salary and royalties from his compositions and phonograph records.

And the jazz king is only 28.

Members of his orchestra have grown prosperous with him.

Jones is a big strapping fellow and looks entirely unlike a musician.

But how he can play!

"I'm going to make a million and then quit," he says. "There's no use working all your life. A million will suit me fine."

Jones goes to work in his specially designed limousine. The driver wears a mouse-colored uniform to match the color scheme of the car.

A pocket has been built into the auto to hold Jones' saxophone.

Usually after each performance Jones takes in the town with his wife. Jones spends with the prodigality of "Coal-Oil Johnny" of a half century ago, tipping with bills of large denomination. But there's method in his madness, for thus he keeps attuned to the spirit of jazz.

Frequently he uses his orchestra to raise charitable funds.

Folks say "King Jazz" has a heart as large as a piano.

MILK PRODUCERS GET PRICE BOOST

CHICAGO, Ill.—Approximately 90 per cent of the dairymen of northern Illinois, northern Indiana and southern Wisconsin, members of the Milk Producers' association, received from Chicago distributors a substantial increase in the price of their milk.

From the present scale of $1.60 for one hundred pounds, the following scale for three months was agreed on: July, $2; August, $2.05; September, $2.00.

Distributors intimated they would pass the increases along to their customers.

VERSATILITY OF ETCHING

The needle is the crayon; the acid adds color. The needle is something all the more eloquent because its means of expression are confined within more restricted limits. It is familiar and lively in sketch which by a very little must say a great deal; the sketch is the spontaneous letter. It all but reaches the highest expressions when it is called in to translate a grand spectacle, or one of those fugitive effects of light which nature seems to produce but sparingly, so as to leave to art the merit of fixing them.—Maxime Lalanne, in "A Treatise on Etching."

LEGISLATIVE ERROR MAY KEEP GOVERNORS FROM GETTING RAISE

Amendment Permitting Increase in Salary Not Officially Directed on Ballot

RULING ON LEGAL POINT ASKED BY HALL OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

Home Rule Amendment May also be Held up by Error

MADISON, Wis.—An oversight on the part of the 1921 legislature may keep Wisconsin governors during the next four years from having a salary increase even though the people would be willing to grant them one.

This fact developed Friday when Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state, discovered that the proposed constitutional amendment passed by the 1919 and 1921 sessions of the legislature permitting an increase in the salary of the governor from the present $5,000, about to be submitted to the people at the November election, had not been officially directed on the ballot by the legislators.

He has asked Attorney General William J. Morgan for an opinion to settle the question whether the process of constitutional amendment requires official legislative action other than that involved in passing through two sessions a resolution calling for an amendment. In all of the 74 years of the State's history the legislature has in addition passed an act directing the secretary of state to place the proposed amendment on the ballot.

Should the attorney general decide that the error of the 1921 legislature nullified the act, it might mean that two proposed constitutional amendments would be held up due to technical mistakes made before submitting the amendments to the people. The Supreme court is now considering whether an error on the part of the enrolling clerk of the 1919 session has nullified its action on the home rule amendment passed that year.

The question of raising the salary of the governor has been considered by several of the legislature and finally passed in 1919 and 1921. The proposed change would give the legislature power to increase the amount paid him form the $5,000 he now receives.

In 1862 the first constitutional amendment affecting the governor increased his wage from $1,250 annually to $2,500 and then an amendment passed by the people in 1869 raised this salary to $5,000 where it has remained since. Governors have said that they were unable to carry on the duties of their office and live as a chief executive of the state is expected to live on the $5,000 salary.

Supreme court justices receive $7,500 annually and a number of secretaries of commissions receive more than is paid the governor. Upon the opinion of the attorney general will depend whether the secretary of state this year will submit the question of an increased salary to the people.

QUINTETTE MAKES BIG HIT AT RIVOLI

Original presentation of splendid singing and clever dancing is responsible for the success of the Metropolitan Quintette, which is enjoying a week's run at the Rivoli theater.

Songs classic and popular are presented by this versatile group. Hazel Moore, late prima donna of Boyle Woolfolk's All Girl Revue, has an unusual voice of wide range. Another bright bit is Julia Keith's offering of old and new songs. Harry Rashig, one-time leader of Admiral Sim's band, handles a cornet as easily and well as he does his voice. And then there is Rex Reynolds. His singing of the "Gypsy Love Song" is a sure-fire attraction. Bobby Pierce, the fifth member of the coterie, is an exceptionally clever little dancer and her presentation of the "Danse Ballet" scores heavily. Her character songs of the Frances White variety are peppy and realistic. She has been called a girl edition of Peck's Bad Boy.

The Metropolitan Quintette is a collection of artists that is hard to equal and those who like vaudeville of the better sort, vaudeville that is different are sure to enjoy this class. A song and dance offering. In addition to the vaudeville, the Rivoli presents, "The Song of Life," a First National attraction and a Toonerville comedy.

First Army Medical Corps at Seige of Troy

According to Greek legend, the founder of the first medical school was Chiron, the senator. Aesculapius was the only one of his many pupils that equaled the master. He studied the curative properties of plants and the treatment of diseases and founds. If we can believe Homer, the two sons of Aesculapius, Machaon and Podalyre, organized the first army medical corps, which functioned during the siege of Troy. Greece made demi gods of her scientists and doctors, and the Iliad remarks that a physician "is worth many men."

New Training Method Makes Girl a Law College Student at Ten

(By MARIAN HALE)

In a middy blouse, knee-length skirt, sandals and half hose, Rosie Reeve told me of her ambition to become a lawyer.

Although she was wearing the flapper uniform, she is no flapper. She isn't old enough. She is only 10—small for that—and very child-like in appearance.

Yet she has just completed a year of study at Western University, London, Ont., and has come to New York to enter the law course at Columbia University.

Which leads you, correctly, to deduce that Rosie is a prodigy.

Two years ago Rosie was in public school, just like your child, making the acquaintance of spelling and arithmetic.

When she finished the fourth grade her father decided to take her out of school. He is an inventor and had invented a new system of education. He didn't believe much in schools and Rosie wasn't very well.

For two months Rosie frequented her father's school—he was teaching his new system of typewriting and stenography. In that length of time she had picked up enough to enable her to hold a job.

Then for two months, at the age of eight, she held a regular stenographer's job and made good!

Then in two years she bridged what takes the average child at least eight years.

"We simply make a game of study—my father and I," Rosie explains.

Her education has been founded on a study of the dictionary which her father has rearranged for the use of his pupils, according to family word groups instead of alphabetically. From that foundation she has built all her learning.

In college last year she studied English literature, Spanish, French and chemistry.

She has read widely and leans toward the realistic schools, both in art and literature. Her favorite author is Dickens. She loves all sports, particularly horseback riding and swimming. She is very fond of music and hopes to cultivate her voice.

"But I have chosen law as my profession because I believe it will enable me to do the biggest service —and I believe it takes more brains than any other profession," she says.

ROSIE REEVE

"And I intend to marry, for I don't care to be an old maid.

Rosie has two sisters, both older than she, and both unusually developed mentally. One of them is being groomed for the champion speed typist of the world.

PETERSONS, WEIMAR LOSE MONEY PAID TO SAM BIRMINGHAM

Court Holds Weimar Must Stand Loss of $1,500 and Petersons $1,000 Bank Draft in Deal

In the suit brought by Mrs. Julia Peterson and her daughters, Evelyn and Ruth, against Albert J. Weimar and the State Bank of La Crosse, for the title, upon completion of the contract, to the property at 304 North Twenty-first street, Judge Higbee in his conclusions of law in the findings of fact, holds that Weimar must stand the loss of the $1,500, the first money paid on the purchase price, and the Petersons must stand the loss of the $1,000 draft, issued by the State bank.

It was in this case that John Samuel (Sam) Birmingham, missing realty operator, acted as agent and obtained the $1,500 and the $1,000 realized when the bank draft was cashed, all of which disappeared at the time Birmingham "turned up missing."

In his conclusions Judge Higbee ruled:

"The court finds that the plaintiffs are entitled to have the sum of $1,500 credited upon said contract of purchase as and of the seventh day of September, 1921, and to have judgment requiring the defendant, Arthur J. Weimar, make, execute, and deliver his deed of said premises, free and clear of incumbrances, upon the payment to him, within 30 days from the date of the entry of this judgment, the sum of $1,000 with interest on $3,000 at six per cent thereon from the said seventh day of September, 1921, and the delivery to him of a mortgage upon said premises for the sum of $2,000, bearing interest at six per cent, payable on demand.

"That the action be dismissed as to the defendant, State Bank of La Crosse, and that said defendant have and recover of the plaintiff its costs and disbursements herein; no costs to be recovered by either the defendant, Arthur J. Weimar, or the plaintiffs."

BE SAFE AND SANE IF YOU CAN, AND IF YOU CAN'T AT LEAST BE CAREFUL

In careful, expert hands fireworks are all very well. Inexpert hands want to be mighty, mighty careful. Children can't be expected to be expert. Only too often they're not careful. It's dangerous to trust them with explosives.

Yet it's not to be denied, truthfully, that there's no Fourth of July sport, from the small boy's standpoint, to compare with burning gunpowder.

So if the younger members of the family absolutely won't be satisfied with anything but the old-fashioned unsafe and insane sort of an Independence day celebration and if Your Town hasn't outlawed it, before letting them take their lives and eyesight and various members into their hands to jeopardize, impress on your boys' and girls' minds as many "don't's" as possible—after which, put your trust in Providence.

There are no positive instructions to be given in connection with this kind of amusement. They're all negative.

Firstly, don't celebrate with a pistol. It's always dangerous, even with blank cartridges. Besides, there's a law against it everywhere.

Secondly, don't light a giant firecracker, for instance, and then continue to hold onto it. The small boy may do it once or twice or half a dozen times and get away with it, but sooner or later he'll be provided with a crippled hand, as a souvenir of the occasion.

Thirdly, don't fire off a mine or some such thing just back of another person for the purpose of frightening the latter—or, for that matter—for any other purpose. And don't let anybody do it to you either—not without giving him good cause, to remember it.

Fourthly, don't throw a firecracker or other explosive at another. Nor permit it to be thrown at you. Likewise don't allow it to be done to your little boy or girl. Many frightful burning mishaps have occurred in this way. The father who sees one of his children being endangered thus will be fully justified, morally at any rate, if he administers justice, within reason, right on the spot, upon the offender. He may be arrested for doing it, but it will be worth whatever it costs him.

Fifthly, after a firecracker or Roman candle has once been lighted, take it for granted that that particular explosive is no longer safe to be handled. Examining a supposed "dud" to see why it didn't go off, is one of the finest ways ever yet experimented with, in order to be permanently blinded.

And sixthly and lastly, when the day is about done, eventide has fallen and the time has come for shooting of rockets and pinwheels and various varieties of set pieces, don't stand under or behind the butt end of these engines of destruction when applying the match to them. They throw out streams of sparks from behind very frequently and whomsoever is in line with them is due to be perhaps very severely burned, or to have his clothes set on fire.

HIGBEE GRANTS 60 DAY STAY IN CASE OF ANNE SHERMAN

Execution of Judgment Delayed; Woman Gets Verdict for $5,000

A stay of 60 days in the execution of the judgment in the case of Mrs. Anne Sherman against the city of La Crosse and the La Crosse Refining company, was granted by Judge Higbee in circuit court Thursday. The application for a stay was made by Andrew Lees, attorney for the refining company.

Mrs. Sherman was awarded a verdict of $5,000 by a jury last week. Last January Mrs. Sherman slipped and fell on ice on the sidewalk in front of the refining company on South Third street and broke her hip. She sued the city and the company. The ice was formed on the walk from water that ran off the roof of the plant.

In a memorandum decision on motions for judgment, subsequent to the verdict, Judge Higbee said.

"I am of the opinion that the motions to change the answers of the jury should be overruled, and while the damages assessed seem to me to be somewhat larger than should have been awarded, I don't feel that I should disturb the finding, especially in view of the fact that the other findings are to be relieved by the supreme court, where the question may be definitely settled.

"Judgment may be entered upon the verdict in favor of the plaintiff against both defendants. Satisfaction thereof to be enforced against the La Crosse Refining company, primarily liable, before resort to the liability of the defendant city of La Crosse."

Bagpipes Go With the Hills

The bagpipe does not belong exclusively to Scotland but is found in many localities, but they are said to be peculiar to hilly country. A musician walking up hill generally gets out of breath and he needs an instrument which will play itself. The bagpipe does this by reason of the supply of air contained in the bag.

STATE SOCIETY OF HORTICULTURISTS TO MEET AUGUST 16

Fruit Growers Discuss Plan to Break Away from Central Body

MADISON, Wis.—There is considerable interest in the summer meeting of the Wisconsin Horticultural society which will be held at Sturgeon Bay on August 16th and 17th. It seems that there is a growing desire on the part of regular commercial and amateur fruit growers who belong to the society to discontinue the holding of mixed programs and some are even talking of breaking away for the purpose of establishing a separate branch organization to be devoted solely to discussion of fruit growing and marketing. The suggest that the organization would thrive to better purpose if its meetings consisted of sections, each section to consider subjects of its own, such as fruits, flowers, shrub and ornamental planting, and vegetable gardening. They argue that members could then be more apt to attend the sessions, because as arranged in the past there has been a "little of everything and no great amount of anything." Advertising and marketing are problems confronting the fruit growers, and delegates to the Door county meeting will come prepared to reorganize the society for more efficient service, they say. The officers of the society want the members to make it exactly what they desire, providing there is nothing done to reduce the stability of the parent organization, which is the oldest agricultural society in Wisconsin.

PARIS POISON VICTIM WIFE OF NEW YORKER

New Mystery Develops with Disappearance of Daughter of Couple

NEW YORK.—The "woman of mystery" who died in the American hospital in Paris after slow poisoning, refusing to reveal her identity to nurses there, has been identified as Mrs. Elizabeth Kahn, wife of Joseph Kahn, New York broker.

With the woman's identification came a new mystery. Mr. Kahn expressing worry over the whereabouts of his daughter, 19 years old, who last March yielded to her mother's pleas to join her in Europe and left for Paris. Nothing has been heard from her since.

The "woman of mystery" laughed and joked with nurses as the end approached and pronounced as her last words, "Paris got me."

The husband, who has been separated from Mrs. Kahn since 1913, declared on Thursday that she was a daughter of a splendid French family, with excellent social position and with a fortune in her own right.

Mrs. Kahn was found on a street in Paris last week. She was penniless but she had left wearing apparel of considerable value at her hotel in payment of her bill. It evidently was the hotel's request for payment that brought on her financial despondency and her taking of bichloride of mercury.

Kahn met Mlle. Piau at the Paris exposition and married her shortly afterward. They came to live in New York but he tired of her escapades in 1911 and sued for divorce. Later they were reconciled but shortly afterward Mrs. Kahn went to Paris. He followed and began suit for divorce there in 1912, but dropped it a year later and entered into a separation agreement with her. He has not seen her since.

FIRST STATE GUARD UNITS GO TO CAMP ON JULY FIFTEENTH

MADISON, Wis.—The first contingent of the Wisconsin national guard goes into camp on Saturday, July 15, instead of Sunday, July 16, Col. Byron I. Beveridge, assistant adjutant general announced Friday. The second contingent will be in camp from July 31 to August 14.

It had originally been planned to open the encampment on Sunday to avoid having men break into two working weeks of their civil occupations, but the adjutant general reports that it was found that there were so few Sunday trains it would be impossible for many companies to reach camp except by special train.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT STUDYING AMERICAN WIRELESS METHODS

Close Study Given to American Methods of Wireless Broadcasting; Some Adopted

LONDON.—British government officials are giving close study to American methods of wireless broadcasting and gradually are adopting some of them. While the wireless telephone is not as popular in England as in the United States, due largely to government licensing and control, the people are beginning to show intense interest in it. Some of the big London department stores have established wireless departments and are selling receiving sets for as low as $10. Radio terminals are rigged up on their roofs, and crowds of shoppers are entertained each day with wireless concerts, speeches and weather reports. Direct contact with Arlington and other American stations is easily established.

Nothing written on the subject of wireless broadcasting has brought it home to England so vividly as a recent New York dispatch to the London Times. "In the United States," says the correspondent, "there are already half a million home-made receiving sets for listening-in and a million manufactured sets have been sold."

"By the purchase of the simple and inexpensive receiving sets as used in America," continues the writer, "there is no village in the British Isles so poor or unfriended that it will not be able to afford, or find a patron to give the necessary receiving instrument. The villager and every remote farmhouse should receive every night as good singing, as good opera, as good dance music, as good a lecture, or as good a survey of the news as any millionaire in London can buy."

In answer to a published statement that wireless broadcasting of concerts would hurt the musical and theatrical industries, Louis Sterling, president of a large American phonograph company, has said that in the march of science there never yet was a great invention that had not been incalculable benefit both to the industry with which it was immediately concerned and to kindred industries.

"When graphaphones were invented," said Mr. Sterling, "people said that they would kill pianos; the cinema was fully expected to give the quietus to the legitimate stage; vaudeville was at first looked upon as the death dance of musical comedy.

"None of these things has happened. The new has in every case benefited the old. The more good pictures the people see the greater their taste for the ordinary stage, and the more music they hear on the graphaphone the greater their desire to exercise their creative powers upon their own piano. Appetite grows upon what it feeds upon, and the more good music the people get from wireless broadcasting the more they will want from their own pianos."

MADE IT WORSE

A philanthropic woman visited an asylum not long ago and displayed great interest in the inmates. One old man particularly gained her compassion. "And how long have you been here my man?" she inquired.

"Twelve years," was the answer.

"Do they treat you well?"

"Yes."

After addressing a few more questions to him the visitor passed on. She noticed a smile broadening on the face of her attendant, and, on asking the cause, heard with consternation that the old man was none other than the medical superintendent. She hurried back to make apologies. How successful she was may be gathered from these words: "I am sorry, doctor, I will never be governed by appearances again."—Presbyterian Banner.

By AILEEN RIGGIN
Olympic Fancy Diving Champion.

Like the swan dive, the back dive is known for its grace and beauty.

Begin by standing at attention at the lower end of the board.

Then walk gracefully the full length of the board, and, turning, stand on the balls of your feet at the free end, with your back to the water, the hands being straight at the side, fingers straight.

Spring upward and slightly backward, keeping the hands at your side until you have reached the highest point of your swing, and then fully extend the arms over the head, being careful to have the fingers straight, and the toes pointed, and curve over backward.

Enter the water with the body straight up and down.

TOURISTS IN ROME MUST PAY SERVICE AND LUXURY TAXES

Ten Percent Added to Hotel Bills to Take the Place of Tips; New Tax Proposed

ROME.—Seeking the money of the tourist in Rome; the municipality hethought itself of collecting from him a tax of 10 per cent of his hotel bill, simply for the privilege of sojourning in the city. But there was violent opposition from the public in general and hotel keepers in particular, with the customary references to the killing of the goose that lays the golden egg, and the proposal, for the time being at any rate, has been shelved.

Already a tourist in Rome pays a tax, based on his hotel bill of 10 per cent for service, supposed to be in place of tips, and a luxury tax of from 7 per cent to 12 per cent. The new tax would have made a third enforced contribution.

Ten per cent in the bill instead of tips does not work out very well. The tourist avers he has to tip anyway to get good service, and the servants say they do not by any means receive their share of the considerable sum produced by this levy.

The hotels of Rome, closed during the war, are reopening, but proprietors are complaining of excessive costs. They declare that before the war they could feed a servant for 25 cents a day, and that now they must pay three dollars for the same food and drink for the public in Rome show striking evidences of prosperity and are generally referred to as "sharks."

IN BAD COMPANY

When a vote is to be taken on some important measure, a congressman who can not be present "pairs himself with some representative who would vote "aye" to the congressman's "nay," or vice versa. Once a democratic member of the house received a letter from an active politician of that party in his district, calling attention to the fact that he was reported in the Congressional Record almost every day as being "paired" with a republican. "I don't doubt your loyalty to the party," read the letter; "but I think the boys would like it a good deal better if you paired with democrats instead of republicans."—Harper's Magazine.

FRENCH DESERTER CAUGHT AS HE PUTS FOOT OVER BORDER

Arrested in Cafe Which is Built Across French-Switzerland Line

GENEVA.—A wealthy Frenchman, F. Bertraud, described as a deserter, has been arrested here at a moment when he had practically one foot on either side of the Swiss and French frontier line, in a cafe that straddles the border. The cafe is in the village of Saint Julien on the international boundary. Part of the building is in Switzerland and part in France.

Early in the war Bertrand settled in Geneva, where, his accusers aver, he made a large fortune trading with Germany. He bought a villa and several automobiles and led a life of pleasure. He said he was more German than French, and took pleasure in speaking against France, particularly in the cafe at Saint Julien where, safe on Swiss territory in one of the drinking rooms, he could be overheard and even seen by the French police in the rooms on the French side. There the French listened to his annoying talk, but unable to catch him on the French side, they could not arrest him. Bertrand boasted that—when there were no police about—he could enter France and return without a passport.

Bertrand after dining well, crossed the border by going from the room on the Swiss side to that on the French side to greet some friends. At the instant he passed the line into France he was pounced upon by two French gendarmes. He put up a fight, but was quickly subdued, handcuffed and carried away.

BRITISH PHYSICIAN WARNS AGAINST THE DRINKING OF MILK

Humans the Only Animal in the World Which Drinks Milk After Infancy, He Says

LONDON.—"Is there any one subject today upon which doctors agree?" asks a skeptical newspaper commenting on the advice of Dr. Cecil Webb-Johnson, who has said: "Never drink milk; it is an unnatural food save for the young."

Giving his reasons for this revolutionary opinion Dr. Webb-Johnson, a specialist on diet, said to a questioner:

"We are the only animals in the world who drink milk after infancy. The domestic cat, it may be pointed out, drinks milk after it has grown up, but this is purely a domestic habit.

"The idea has been handed down through generations that milk is a good thing to drink when you are ill. I think it is the worst thing, and I never allow my patients to have it. It causes constipation, flatulence, a dirty tongue and leads to rheumatism, headaches and tired feelings. Taken in excess it often causes appendicitis.

"Nature does not intend milk to be taken after the purpose for which it was provided has been fulfilled. I prefer hard food always. Frequently—sometimes habitually—people will go whole days without hard food of any description. That, for one thing, is bad for the teeth. Celery, apples and other things that make you bite should be on the table every day.

"Nor is milk good for the body in addition to ordinary food. It makes one fat, and a fat person cannot be healthy."

WHO SAID "WEAKER VESSEL"?

Mrs. Norman Whitehouse, the patrician ex-suffragist who has gone into the leather business, said at a tea in New York:

"Woman should succeed magnificently in business, she is such a past grand mistress of finesse.

"I know a pretty girl who once took the part of palmist in a gypsy tent at a fair. A young man came in to have his fortune told, and the pretty girl, holding his hand in hers tenderly, said:

"'You have an extraordinary character. Your most remarkable quality is generosity. You hate skinflints, you despise the money hoarder, and you look on avarice as a shameful vice. A large and almost reckless liberality marks your path through life.'

"'Thank you,' said the young man, blushing and giggling. 'You are flattering me, I'm afraid.'

"'Not at all,' said the pretty girl, 'and now I'm going to wrap you up these three dozen tickets for our turkey raffle. They're only a simoleon apiece. Three ten, a five, and a one. Thank you; that's just right.'"—Newspaper Journal.

STANDARDS OF YOUTH

Bobby's father was an organist of repute, a calling for which Bobby, at 10 years old, felt a little apologetic when having occasion to explain it to his friends. A policeman, now, or a fireman, those are professions a fellow can boast about! One day he was overheard in conversation with a neighbor's son, who asked:

"Bob, does your father play?"

"Yes," admitted Bobby, without much enthusiasm.

"Well, what does he play, the cornet?"

"No," answered Bobby, half-heartedly, "He plays the organ."

"And does he sing?" persisted the small friend.

"Goodness, no!" indignantly exclaimed the musicians' son, "We wouldn't stand for that!"—Harper's Magazine.

"Sir, I have all the genius of English literature in my library."

"Yes, and I notice that they are uncut gems."—Gaboon.

JOHN BETTIN AND MABEL HELGERSON MARRIED TUESDAY

Attending the bride was Miss Opal Derby and Mr. Henry Hoffer was the best man. The bride wore her going away suit of midnight blue with corsage of sweet peas and roses. After the service at the church a small company was entertained at breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, where a pretty color scheme was carried out, sweet peas and smilax being used on the table. Mrs. W. S. Proctor of Asheville, N. C., sister of the bride, was the only out of town guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Bettin left on a trip, arriving in this city Wednesday, where they were given a reception at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. M. Bettin, 1701 Badger street. BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

WEATHER
BY BERTON BRALEY

The sun is bright and glistering,
Its rays are fairly blistering,
I sweltter
Seeking shelter
Where it's cool, but find it not;
The air seems close and thick to me,
My clothes completely stick to me,
I'm panting
As I'm chanting
"It is hot!"

Along the highways glimmering,
The waves of heat are shimmering.
I'm lacking
And I'm aching
For some frigid arctic spot,
Where I might sit and freeze awhile
And thus be quite at ease awhile;
I'm tiring
Of perspiring—
It is hot!

Yet should a blizzard sweep upon
The land, and snow lie deep upon
The highways
And the byways
I'd be horrified, I wot!
I'd find a lot to sweap about—
As snow flakes in the air about
Were swishing,
I'd be wishing
It was hot!

OVER FOUR AND HALF MILLION ON PAYROLL OF RUSSIAN SOVIET

One Out of Twenty Russians Has a Job With the Government

MOSCOW.—Over four million and a half people, exclusive of the Red army and navy, draw their living direct from governmental sources in Russia, and this in spite of the recent dismissal of 3,000,000 such employes. Nor do these figures cover the Ukraine, with its 30,000,000 people; the far eastern republic, with perhaps 10,000,000, and the governments of Trans-Caucasus, Bokhara and Turkestan. These statisticians mean, says the newspaper "Economic Life," that one out of every 20 persons in Russia has a government job, not counting soldiers and sailors. The new budget will reduce the number of governmental employes still further to 3,300,000.

Of the 4,571,000 still employed, the supreme economic council, which operates a number of factories, pays 1,630,000. Railroads come next with 960,000, and the department of education has 420,000. In the state political police there are 150,000, and in the uniformed police 160,000.

The 3,000,000 recently discharged, deprived of government rations, have had to turn to the open markets to secure their sustenance.

JOGGING HIS MEMORY

It was a thrilling story that McGregor had to tell.

"I had abandoned all hope," he said. "As I sunk for the third time my past life seemed to rise before me in a series of grim, realistic pictures."

A murmur of sympathy rolled from the lips of listening friends; but just as McGregor was preparing to resume, McTavish interrupted him sharply and hopefully.

"And did you happen to notice," he asked, "a picture of me lending you a fiver in the autumn of 1919."—The Continent (Chicago).

DEFLATION OF GRAIN MARKET PUTS ROAST BEEF BACK ON MENU

Deflation of Market Makes it Profitable to Market Feed Grains via Beef Market

CHICAGO.— The great American beefsteak and the succulent roast beef are on their way back to the menu of the ordinary citizen, according to a report made public today by the National Institute of Progressive Farming.

The reason is simple, according to Guy H. Hall, director of the institute. It is that with the deflation of the grain market it has again become profitable to market feed grains via the beef market.

"Our survey of the beef situation, which has been on for a month, covered the four leading pure-breed cattle associations, namely, the Hereford, Aberdeen Angus, Shorthorn and Galloway, the leading livestock markets and some 17,000 farm implement dealers," said Mr. Hall.

"The investigation," continued Mr. Hall, "shows a marked increase in the sale of bulls to farmers and range cattle growers. This means increased herds. All reports agree on that. Herds were terribly depleted during the deflation period and there is still a shortage, but the movement back to normal is now in full swing. As production increases so will consumption, and the rehabilitation of all industry will be that much advanced.

"It is not an exaggeration to state that optimism has returned to the farmer. He sees a sure profit in this season's work and he is buying tractors and farm implements and using them. Our hog survey, recently made public, indicated that: The beef survey confirms it and our sheep survey, now in progress, will clinch it I am sure.

"The survey indicates a profitable market for beef for at least eighteen months longer, and with honest retailing of meats, the American working man should have his beef on the table at least once a day, as of yore. It will not be the growers' fault if he cannot afford it. England has grown to greatness on beef; so has the United States. The return of the steak and the roast to the table is of international importance."

EFFICIENCY FIRST

An applicant for work at the Ford plant asked a veteran Ford employe if it were true that the company was always finding methods of speeding up production by using fewer men. The veteran replied:

"Most certainly. In fact," he continued, "I just had a dream which illustrates the point. Mr. Ford was dead and I could see the pallbearers carrying his body. Suddenly the procession stopped. Mr. Ford had come to life. As soon as the casket was opened he sat upright, and, on seeing six pallbearers, cried out at once: 'Put this casket on wheels and lay off five men.'"—Wall Street Journal.

Easy Life Ahead

"Dinah, I hear you are going to get married."

"Yessum. I done found me a nice steady man."

"Has he a good job?"

"No'm. He's studyin' fer de ministry. I'm gwine support him till he reads the Bible th'oo."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

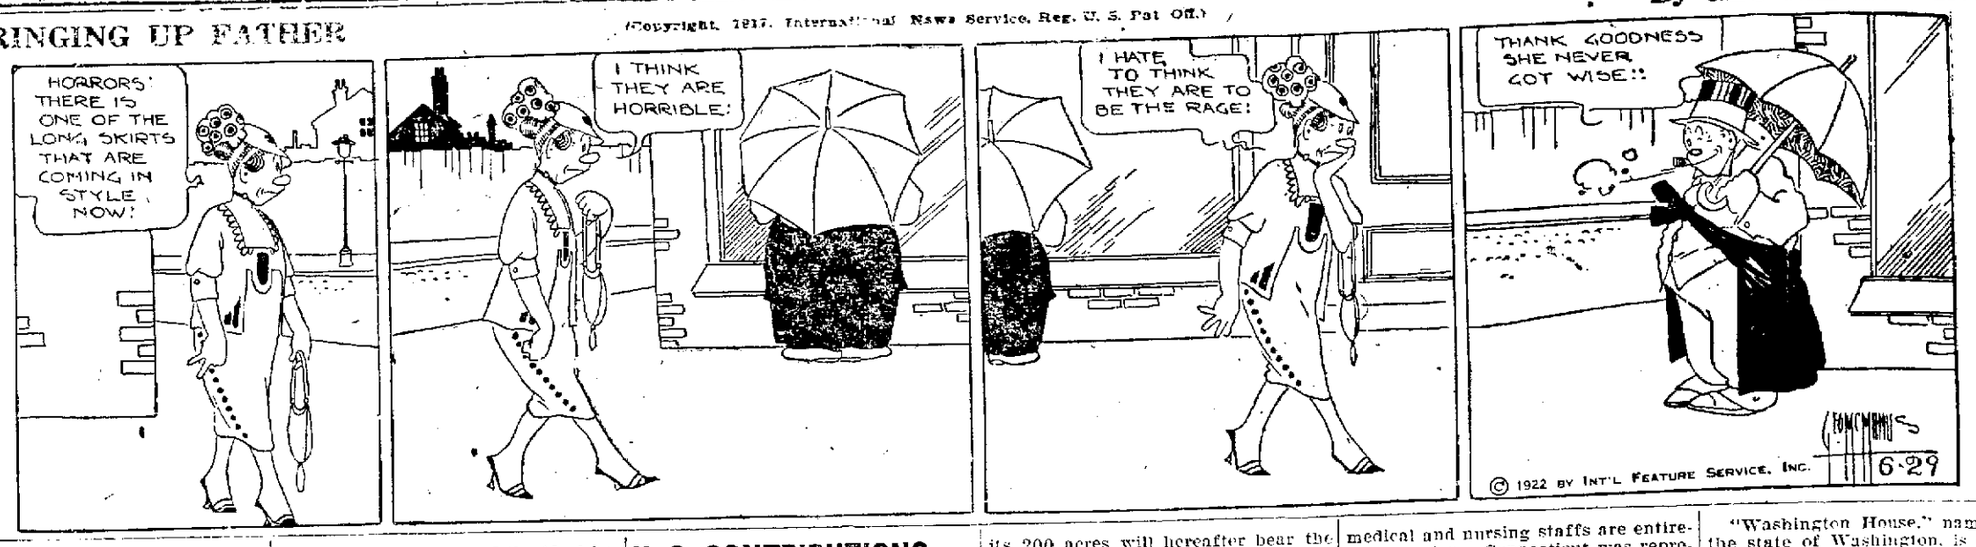
BRINGING UP FATHER (Copyright, 1927, International News Service. Reg. U. S. Pat Off.) By GEORGE McMANUS



TWENTY-EIGHT IS DECLARED IDEAL AGE FOR MOVIE HEROINE

Canvass Shows that One-time "Old Maid" Need No Longer Blush for Her Years

The ideal age for a heroine of moving picture romance or of love stories generally is today 28 years, an age that only a few years ago was regarded by the general public as fixing a woman definitely in the ranks of confirmed spinsterhood. This is the conclusion made from a careful study of the 27,000 love stories which the lay public, amateurs from all walks of life, wrote for the scenario contest recently conducted by the Chicago Daily News. Representing not what scenario and magazine editors or writers guess the public's choice to be, these manuscripts were first hand information on the actual tastes of the people who buy books and who attend moving picture exhibitions.

"Striking unity among the nationally scattered contestants upon the subject of the heroine's age is among the first things to be noted by the judges," said James Shyrock, director of the contest, announcing the facts as brought out by the competition. "It is too general to be accidental and represents undoubtedly, a country-wide change in ideals.

"Few of the heroines are in their 'teens, only a handful, are in their very early twenties, the great majority are around 27 and 28, the authors seeming to regard this age as woman's best and woman as more beautiful, intelligent, poised and attractive there than previously. The judges declared that the age of the ideal heroine had been advancing steadily since the 1870's when a girl of 16 or 17 was regarded as romantically perfect.

"The judges explain this by citing woman's entrance into industry, politics, education and by pointing out that woman today refuses to grow old and takes better and more intelligent care of her beauty than she did in early periods. In the stories written by women, 60 per cent of the total, the heroines were on the average four to five years older than in the stories written by men."

U. S. CONTRIBUTIONS SUPPORT 5 THOUSAND ARMENIAN ORPHANS

City of Armenian Boys is Maintained as Result of Gifts from America

ALEXANDROPOL, Armenia. — A city of orphaned Armenian boys, five thousand of them, supported by American contributions and supervised by American teachers and doctors, is Polygon, a suburb of Alexandropol, midway between the Caspian and the Black Seas. The establishment, doubtless the largest orphanage in the world, is maintained by the near east relief, and the more important of the many stone buildings scattered over its 200 acres will hereafter bear the name of an American state. Then this state will be invited to contribute to the support of its house. The cost of caring for an orphan boy in Polygon is about $5 a month.

Various buildings already have been dedicated. "Massachusetts House" is a dormitory for 250 boys, and one of a group of 15 such houses. The state was represented at the ceremonies by Mrs. R. H. Uhls of Fitchburg.

"Connecticut House" is a hospital with 300 beds under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Thom of Chicago. The medical and nursing staffs are entirely Armenian. Connecticut was represented on dedication day by Miss Caroline Silliman of New Canaan, who is director of education for the entire group of buildings.

"Washington House," named after the state of Washington, is designed as the residence of the American personnel. The state was represented at the dedication ceremonies by Alfred D. Merritt of Tacoma.

Score by innings—

Viola ..... 000 005 000 — 5
Nelson Clo. Co. ..... 000 200 000 — 2

Summaries—Home run, Krause. Two base hits, Beranek, Frenz, Hamilton, Griffin. Struck out—By Schultz, 4; by Big Benn, 6. Base on balls—Off Schultz, none; off Big Benn, none. Umpire—Nick Bartle.

FIVE unmerciful safe clouts off Schultz with the encouragement of but a single intervening put out in the ninth inning of the fracas with Big Benn and his band of Kickapoo warriors, in which pinch hitters came to the rescue to put over the winning runs, tells the story of how the Nelsons were lowered to defeat after playing a winning exhibition at Copeland park Thursday evening. The final score was 5 to 2.

Krause Homers

A home run by Krause on a powerful clout over the spectators in left field, which broke the ice for the locals, and another score by Frenz after his double, put Satek's aggregation out in front until the fatal ninth. Viola scored one in the eighth. In the opening of the ninth, Schultz was staggered at the very outset when Hamilton led off with a double and the four singles which followed in quick succession lost no time in gaining three scores for the visitors. Satek threatened to chase the right hander in favor of Krause after the score was tied in the ninth, but when Big Benn chose from among his mighty host of pinch hitters a left hander, "Wet," was again given the mound only to sink further in the depths to defeat.

It was figured that Schultz, warmed up, could better bring the inning to a more successful close than Krause, coming in cold.

Benn allowed eight hits while Schultz was touched for nine, five of which came in the ninth. Benn permitted one hit in the ninth inning.

Schultz easily pitched the winning game until the ninth, shading Benn in the number of hits in the eight innings by three. He was ultra effective with men on base as was the big visiting hurler, both emerging from tight circumstances by wonderful exhibitions of hurling. In the fifth inning Satek's crew tightened to shut off scores after Sandmire had singled and Ambrose reached first on an error of Smith. The latter was forced to retire on a put out at second, Sanford grounded out and "Web" finished by striking out the visitors' lead-off man, Straw.

Benn Effective

Benn displayed his effectiveness particularly in the third when local rooters dead on second and third. Schultz was out and Johnson took first on an error. Cully hit through Straw at second and took second base for good measure as Johnson went to third. Smith whiffed and Schaefer grounded out to first.

Both teams played even on purpose, by dropping an infield fly with a runner on first to retire the side, Schaefer scoring the play in the third on Shilling's pop with Baldwin on first after Straw was out, and Sanford retiated on Smith's short fly in the fifth inning.

Krause, leading off in the fourth, drove the pellet over the spectators in left field for an easy home run. Frenz doubled and was sent around on Satek's sacrifice. Frenz reaching home when the visiting catcher was asleep on the play for the runner at the plate. Schultz hunted out and Johnson flied out to end the scoring.

Score in Eighth

In the eighth, Sanford was safe on Schaefer's error. Houlihan, sent in for Straw, sacrificed. Baldwin got an infield hit over Schultz's head and Shilling singled to score Sanford. Handy flied to Cully, who settled the fans for the second time in succession by taking Benn's fly.

In the ninth inning Benn paraded the side lines and pulled a piece of engineering that spelled defeat for the home club. He sent in pinch hitters, one after another, who proved to be real "minute men" and five hits in succession were garnered off Schultz. Hamilton led off with a double. Sandmire singled, sending the runner to third. On the squeeze play, Larry came in to cover third and Hamilton was out on a pretty piece of work. Gont, pinch hitting for Ambrose, singled over first, tying the score when Sandmire crossed the rubber. Sanford singled and both runners were home on Griffin's clout. Baldwin grounded out and Griffin was caught at third.

"Office Girl" Stars in Athletics

By NEA Service.

SAN FRANICSCO, Calif.—Can the "time-bound" office girl, with her confining surroundings and routine hours, star in athletics?

Can she keep in "form" and "training?"

"Yes," emphatically answers Miss Emma Reiman, twice winner of the most strenuous of women Marathons, the 'Dipsea hike,' a west coast race unique in athletics. This annual event is a cross country run from the mountains to the sea over hills and dales for eight miles.

Miss Reiman, who six days a week pours over columns of figures, does stenographic duty and other office routine, has been pronounced by trainers "the trained-to-a-minute girl" and "the best trained girl athlete in the west."

How does she do it? Miss Reiman supplies the following answer:

"Well, the first thing involved is a fond farewell to dances, late parties, French pastry at the noon luncheons and all that sort of thing.

"For six months nine o'clock in the evening found me in bed and five o'clock in the morning found me up. Each morning at sunup or thereabouts I take a brisk hike of five or six miles. It's amazing how fit for work this makes one. Eat simply; in fact diet. That's next in importance. Don't let your work spoil your disposition and digestion. Be contented at it.

"After a little rest at the end of the day's work take another hike. Remember you haven't been exercising all day and if you're tired it's mental and not physical fatigue. I do another stretch of miles before sundown then a meal minus heavy or sugary foods. Several nights a week find me at the gymnasium. Of course you've got to apply yourself, but to get into training, application is half the battle. I claim that an office girl is just as well equipped to do this as anyone; in fact better than most, for she hasn't time to loaf."

DANCE ON STEAMER TO MUSIC SENT FROM ST. LOUIS BY RADIO

On Sunday July 2, Ralph Williams' Famous Benson orchestra of Chicago will give a concert at St. Louis which will be broadcasted from the Mac station there, the station having a radius of 2,000 miles. The Streckfus line has placed receiving sets on its steamers and on the afternoon of the day in question patrons of the Capitol will dance at Red Wing, Minn., to the music supplied at St. Louis by the Williams' aggregation and those occupying the Steamer Washington at Burlington, Iowa, will do likewise.

This will be the first time on the Mississippi river that such a feat has ever been attempted and much interest has been aroused by the possibilities of the idea.

DAHL'S FORDS MEET STRONG ONALASKA TEAM ON SUNDAY

The Dahl's Fords meet the strong Onalaska Spinning Mills team Sunday afternoon at Onalaska at 2:00 o'clock.

Thompson, who pitched against the Union Giants last year will hurl for the Onalaska aggregation against the Fords.

Cappie Groth will hurl for the local team.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Roger Hornsby, Cardinal second baseman, reached the Century mark by making three hits in a game from which St. Louis emerged victorious over Pittsburgh, 8 to 5. He is the second player in the majors and the first in the National league to enter that field, George Sisler, first sacker of the St. Louis Browns, preceding him. Hornsby's ninety-eighth hit, his seventeenth homer of the season, sailed into the enclosure between the scoreboard and the right field bleachers, the first time this feat was performed in the history of Forbes field.

The Giants' pennant stocks took another boom when Fred Toney twirled a three hit game against the Philadelphians, winning 6 to 2.

Brooklyn defeated the Boston Braves 7 to 3.

The Yankees won out in the tenth from the Senators 6 to 4.

By overwhelming Boston 10 to 3 the Athletics climbed out of the cellar. The Philadelphians centered their attack in the fourth and fifth innings in which they scored eight markers.

The other teams were idle.

VIROQUA HERE IN CLASH WITH MONTAGUES SUNDAY SEND STRONG TEAM HERE

Baseball fans will witness the first appearance of the Viroqua baseball club in the city Sunday afternoon with the Montagues occupying the home diamond. Manager Keen of the Viroqua club, announced that he will present as strong a team as has represented the city in any game this season.

With Gunderson reserved for the Fourth of July game with the Nelsons, it has been announced that Pate will perform on the mound for the Montagues. Glamski, West Salem backstop, and hurler of a no-hit, no-run game against Trempealeau a week ago Sunday, will receive for the home club Sunday.

Morrison or Hastings, likely the latter, were announced by Manager Keen today as hurlers to be sent in against the local club. They have Williams, normal school man of last year, behind the bat. Williams caught several games for the club last season. Manager Keen stated in a long distance conversation that the club is out for victory here Sunday.

STUDENT ATHLETE

CLARENCE F. CROSSLEY

Clarence F. Crossley of St. Louis has been awarded the conference medal for excellence in scholarship and athletics at the University of Illinois. This award is made to one graduating senior in each Big Ten institution.

Crossley, who received his degree in chemistry on June 14, played varsity baseball for three years. For two ears he played in the outfield and this year he was moved to third base.

Three years ago Crossley organized an independent basketball team, self-styled the Apaches. In three years of intra-mural basketball this team of which Crossley was the organizer, coach, captain and one of the players, played nearly seventy games and won them all.

To the casual observer this may not mean much, but this year this same team entered the sectional independent amateur basketball tournament at Danville and emerged champions.

Although a chemist by education, Crossley has elected to enter the coaching profession. He will be athletic director of the Quincy high school next year.

WEDDED MATHILDE UNDER ETHER CLAIM OF NEUROTIC YANK

CHICAGO, Ill.—"When I was out at the Great Lakes Naval Training station they put me under ether and married me to Mathilde McCormick. She puts people on my trail to watch wherever I go."

This delusion, entertained by Robert F. Burgess, an ex-service man who was gassed overseas, caused him to be sent to the state asylum at Elgin Thursday by Judge Righeimer. According to physicians, Burgess took all newspaper references to the Oser-McCormick engagement as insults to himself. He had been held at the Speedway hospital for some months as a psycho-neurotic case.

FUNDS FOR SCHOOL BONUS TURNED OVER TO SOLDIER BOARD

Law Amended to Permit Transfer from Cash Bonus Without Returning Money

MADISON, Wis.—The State Board of Education turned over to the Service Recognition Board today $122,641.99 for students who took the educational bonus instead of the cash bonus.

Under the original law a student who had taken the cash bonus could not secure the educational bonus until he first had returned all the money that he had received as cash bonus. Under this provision many ex-service men had asked the money and were unable to continue because they did not have the necessary amount which in quite a number of cases amounted to over $200. It was the presentation of these cases to the last Legislature that caused them to amend the law to make it possible for boys who had received the cash bonus but were unable to pay it back, to receive the benefits of the Educational Bonus Law. After they had earned as educational bonus the amount of their cash bonus, they received regularly $30 a month.

During the present year 1,485 ex-service men applied under this provision of the law, 804 have completely worked out their cash bonus amounting to $122,641.99, that was turned over to the Service Recognition Board this morning. There are still 681 students assigned to educational institutions entitled to receive the educational bonus, but for the present are working it out. At the present time this amounts to approximately $50,000 additional, but as a matter of practice the amount is not paid to the Service Recognition Board until these students actually complete the period required to pay off the amount of the cash bonus.

MISDIRECTED TO A DANCE HALL; WILLIAM KABAT STARTS FIGHT

William Kabat, John Severson and Leonard Temp were on their way to a dance the other evening. They were not quite sure of the location of the dance hall so they stopped Stephen Yehle and asked him where the hall was. He told them they were several miles from the place, when actually they were a few blocks away from the hall. Immediately a fight started or at least William Kabat started the melee. Kabat, Severson and Temp were arrested on a warrant sworn out by Yehle. Severson and Temp were dismissed by County Judge Brindley when it was shown that Kabat did most of the fighting. Kabat was fined $10, with $6 in costs.

WM. ROCKEFELLER'S MILLIONS ARE LEFT TO FOUR CHILDREN

NEW YORK.—The bulk of the estate left by William Rockefeller, oil magnate, reputed to have been one of the richest men in the world, was bequeathed to his four children under the terms of his will filed for probate on Thursday.

Virtually the entire estate, the value of which was cloaked in the legal phrase "over $10,000," was left to the immediate family, with no charitable bequests.

After certain deductions Mr. Rockefeller, who died recently at his home in North Tarrytown, directed that his estate should be divided into four parts and given his children—Percy and William G. Rockefeller, Mrs. Geraldine Dodge and Mrs. Emma McAlpin.

ADOLPH JANKEL IS FINED; CRUELTY TO HORSE IS CHARGED

Adolph Jankel, driver for the La Crosse Stone company, was fined $10, with costs amounting to $32.12, by County Judge Brindley for alleged cruelty to a horse. Jankel is said to have attached a chain around the neck of a horse attached to another stone wagon which had dumped a load of stone at the new Christian Science church and then started up the second team that was giving the span attached to the wagon a lift. The helping team started faster than the team attached to the wagon and the animal that was chained was thrown to the ground and dragged several feet by its neck.

The Smallest Theater

There are several "Little Playhouses" in this country but the smallest of them all is that at Ypsilanti, Mich., which was remodeled from a barn by a company of fifteen amateur theatrical enthusiasts. The auditorium measures 12 by 18 feet and with a small gallery which was once a hay mow, there are accommodations for sixty persons. The stage is 9 by 15 feet with a depth of 25 feet. The theater is self-supporting and it is proposed to make it the nucleus of a municipal theatre.

Cheaters Cheated Themselves

While removing the cargo of a ship unloaded recently at Portland, Oregon, it was discovered that a certain portion, which was supposed to consist of walrus tusks, proved to be the ivory tusks of the mastodon. Crafty Siberian natives had substituted these for the walrus ivory which was ordered. The cheaters, however, cheated themselves, for in spite of its great age the substitute was well preserved, and the large size of the tusks consequently made them more valuable.

UNWRITTEN LAW IS WIPED OFF BOOKS BY KENTUCKY JURY

William White Found Guilty of Murder Contrary to General Expectation

LEXINGTON, Ky.—The unwritten law received a staggering jolt here on Thursday when a jury trying William E. White, a Fayette county farmer, for shooting to death Arthur Johnson in the Lexington postoffice on April 8, found him guilty. The jury deliberated only an hour. White goes to prison for life.

The Bluegrass country heretofore has been the stronghold of the unwritten law.

Johnson had been seen talking to Mrs. White in the postoffice lobby. White came into the place and saw them. He broke up the conversation with his revolver, and when the details became known everybody felt quite certain he would be acquitted. The defendants' attorneys were confident of it, and the general public, shrewd judge of trials expected at least a hung jury.

But the jury said "guilty," and now White's attorneys are indignantly asking for a new trial. The prisoner's eldest daughter collapsed when the verdict was announced while Mrs. White retaining her composure, left the courtroom without speaking to her husband.

All Lexington is asking, "Is any avenging husband safe?"

A gold nugget weighing five pounds, was recently found in California.

LEGISLATORS TO DISTRIBUTE U. S. HIGHWAY FUNDS

Limited Amount of Highway Can be Improved With Funds from Federal Government

MADISON, Wis.—The distribution of $6,000,000 of federal aid money for use in building Wisconsin roads during the next four years will probably be made by a committee of the 1921 legislature because of provision in the federal act limiting the amount of highway that may be improved by the funds, it was learned Friday.

Under the federal aid statute, the roads that may be improved are limited to 7 per cent of the total mileage of the state. This amounts to approximately 5,500 miles in Wisconsin, according to M. J. Thorkelson, assistant chief engineer of the highway department, while the state trunk highway system totals 7,500 miles.

There are said to be 1,500 miles of the state trunk highway which should without question receive federal aid, leaving an additional 1,000 miles to be selected for improvement with federal money. It is in determining what part of the remaining 3,000 miles should have the use of this federal aid, that the elegislature will be asked to take part.

This act of congress limiting the mileage of the state trunk system that can be affected by federal funds, has raised a serious problem for the highway commission due to the antagonism that may be raised in sections not receiving aid. For this reason the legislature is to be asked to take a part in the apportionment.

William Kundy was granted a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Lulu Enders Kundy in circuit court Thursday afternoon by Judge Higbee. Testimony had been taken in the case at a previous hearing. Kundy charged his wife with unbecoming conduct. The court did not allow any alimony, awarded the household furniture to Kundy and turned the three children over to the care of their grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Enders, formerly of La Crosse but now of Green Bay, Kundy was ordered to pay $30 a month for their care. Quincy Hale was attorney for Mrs. Kundy while F. E. Withrow was Kundy's lawyer.

CO-OPERATION AND STANDARDIZATION NEED OF FARMERS

Recommendations of Congress Commission of Farm Inquiry Made Public Thursday

LEGISLATION NEEDED TO GUARD AGAINST UNFAIR DISCRIMINATION

Advocates Economy in Marketing and Distribution

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Recommendation that the agricultural producers of the United States "be encouraged to develop co-operative associations, to hasten the standardization of agricultural production, improve the distributive processes, and reduce their costs," forms the foremost conclusion of the joint congressional commission of agricultural inquiry in its completed report on marketing and distribution made public Thursday night.

The commission, in making this recommendation, states its belief that the "situation of the agricultural producer can be materially improved by a standardization of production of crops in producing centers so as to permit more economic selection, grading and preparation of commodities in the producers' local markets."

Legislation is Needed

It notes that the federal government has removed limitations which have previously retarded the full development of co-operative associations, but declares, "both state and federal governments should enact the necessary legislation to assure co-operative associations against unfair discriminations and to insure such associations against unfair practices."

Economies in marketing and distribution, the commission found, can be effected through development of greater uniformity of products, grades, standards and containers; improvement in methods of handling by agencies in local, primary and terminal markets, which will tend to create greater certainty on the part of the receiver and the part of the producer as to salability of products; establishment of qualified and authorized agencies to arbitrate disagreements between shippers and receivers as to value, condition, kind, grade and quantity of commodities; development of adequate, organized and correlated terminal markets and by minimizing movement of commodities from terminal to terminal, or from terminal to central market, thus saving employment of an unnecessarily large number of men and equipment.

The report says that the commission is of the opinion that congress should speedily re-enact legislation looking to the regulation of future trading in grain, "in accordance with sound constitutional conceptions."

Wider Use of Warehouses

Much also can be accomplished in the way of economic distribution, the commission found, by a more systematic utilization of warehouses, to absorb temporary surplus and distribute more evenly in response to the consuming demand.

The distribution of perishable products can be improved, in the view of the commission, by the establishment of more adequate central wholesale markets.

Converters of agricultural productions can materially reduce the cost of distribution of trade marked commodities by adjusting production more definitely to current consuming requirements, the commission believes, pointing out that such converters, in an effort to reduce the cost of production by creating great volume of manufacture, have developed the policy of forced distribution, which results in accumulation of large stocks of merchandise carrying a constantly increasing burden of invested capital, cost, interest, insurance, rent and depreciation, all of which is added to the cost of distribution.

OFFICE OF MAYOR TOO MUCH FOR OLES OF YOUNGSTOWN, O.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio.—George L. Oles elected mayor of Youngstown on an independent ticket last fall after a sensational campaign, Friday resigned from office after six stormy months of administration.

A statement given out by Oles said that "my head is full of public troubles and of praise, enough to last me the rest of my life," and asserted that "no matter what I do, I make enemies."

He attacked businessmen who signed petitions to retain "at wartime wages" twenty-five policemen whom he discharged.

A petition asking for Oles' removal as mayor was filed with Governor Davis a few days ago. The mayor was charged with incompetency and accepting graft. This petition has not been acted upon.

The Stork Swarm of Angora

In Angora, the capital of Nationalist Turkey, storks may be seen everywhere. One pair nest on the top of the column reared by the Romans in honour of Augustus; others on the roof of the Parliament building; several pairs make their home on the Hotel Huriet. Boys are brought up to leave them alone. Indeed Anatolia is a birds' paradise, for the Turks never shoot them or destroy their nests.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS IN "THE SEVENTH DAY"

"The Seventh Day" is good enough entertainment for the seventh day and all the other six. While it might be stretching a point to say that it is the best entertainment the screen has ever had, there is little question but that Richard Barthelmess, who won his sensational spurs as star with "Tol'able David," has followed it up with a picture of unusual interest. It opens at the Majestic theater today for a two-day run.

The story, an original by Porter Emerson Browne, is a simple narrative of the lives of New England fishermen in which the star's simple, sincere manner of acting carries conviction.

COMIC SCREEN CROOK BECOMES A SALESMAN

Harry Myers, the comedian who suddenly leaped to prominence through his enactment of the Yankee in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," and of Gilly, one of the crooks in Rex Ingram's screen production for Metro of "Turn to the Right," has an important role in a second Metro picture, "Kisses," which will be shown tonight at the Strand. Hence when Mr. Ingram sought an underworld type who could be funny, he immediately thought of Mr. Myers for the part of Gilly. Maxwell Karger, who directed "Kisses" for Metro, with Alice Lake as the star, cast Mr. Myers in the character of an adventurous traveling salesman.

"SONG OF LIFE" HAS BIG APPEAL FOR FAIR SEX

What wife has not at some time or other rebelled against her fate as a drudge, cook or maid in the house that was to have been a happy home? Most wives have lived through it, some have preferred the divorce court. The happiest are those who either remedied the evil or succeeded in finding another point of view.

This subject, a matter of consideration in nearly every household, is placed in the limelight and treated directly and dramatically in "The Song of Life," at the Rivoli theater. There is a pleasing lack of anything unpleasant in the complications in "The Song of Life."

Outstanding, also, is the really fine acting which has been done by Gaston Glass, Grace Darmond, Georgia Woodthorpe, little Richard Headrick and other talented players in an exceptionally well balanced cast.

RIVIERA TODAY

The natives on Long Island in the vicinity of Montauk Point were treated to the greatest excitement their community had ever known during the filming of the current Conway Tearle picture, "Shadows of the Sea," which will open a two day engagement at the Riviera today. Before the scenes were completed the village was turned almost inside out.

"Shadows of the Sea" is an adventure story written by Frank Dazey. Love and romance play an important part in the picture but the outstanding feature of the production is the rapid-fire action that is noticeable from the first scene to the last. Mr. Tearle, in the role of a young soldier of fortune whose principal occupation is the foiling of maritime laws, is said to enact one of the best roles of his eventful career.

"MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME" TO BE SHOWN HERE TODAY

"My Old Kentucky Home" is at the Casino today. "My Old Kentucky Home" is a story of the south, of mother love, with a beautiful human romance running through it. It has thrills aplenty and has tremendous action, especially in the racing scenes. It has been compared to "Way Down East" for its wholesomeness and is making motion picture history throughout the land. A splendid all-star cast is seen headed by Monte Blue, one of the country's favorite screen actors.

GEORGE WASHINGTON TRADED NEGRO SLAVE FOR A KEG OF RUM

Letters Written by First President Show Habits Not in Accord With Volstead Act

WASHINGTON, D. C.—If George Washington were living today he would have to make many changes in his personal beliefs and practices to conform with the laws of the country of which he was the father. Senator Watson (Ga.) Thursday read in the senate letters written by Washington which showed that he not only was a slave owner but was addicted to habits which now are declared illegal both by the Volstead act and the Willis-Campbell anti-beer law.

Among the letters was one written by Washington to Capt. John Thompson, a sailing master who was about to start on a voyage to the southern islands.

He Got Plenty for Him

"With this letter," Washington wrote, "comes a Negro Tom, which I beg the favor of you to sell in any of the islands you may go to for whatever he will fetch and bring me in return for him one hogshead of best molasses, one hogshead of best rum, one barrel of limes if good and cheap, one pot of tamarinds, two small pots of mixed sweetmeats, and residu, much or little, in good old spirits."

Was a Home Brewer, Too

"I always thought," Senator Stanley interrupted, "that George Washington had his own stillhouse and made his own liquor; in other words, home brew."

"I am not prepared to say whether that is correct," replied the senator from Georgia, "but in the biographies it is said that the first thing he did on arising in the morning was to take a drink of rum and at his dinner he had small cider or beer, finishing up with two glasses of Madeira wine."

"Do you think that is one of the reasons he never told a lie?" Senator Stanley asked.

"Yes, unquestionably that is one of the reasons," Senator Watson answered.

"I wonder," Senator Watson said, "if the father of our country ever anticipated that the time would come when we would have the Volstead act?"

"The world," Senator Meyers remarked, "progresses and both slavery and rum have been abolished in this country."

"I wish I could believe it," replied Senator Watson.

"They have," said Senator Meyers.

FATHER OF RADIO COMES TO AMERICA TO SOLVE WIRELESS PROBLEMS

By PAUL F. GODLEY
America's Foremost Radio Authority.

NEW YORK.—Senator Guglielmo Marconi, father of wireless telegraphy, has come to America to take a lesson in radio.

He will get it from personal observation of the accomplishments and problems of the thousands of amateurs whose little antennae dot the landscape of the country and the powerful stations which broadcast programs night and day. Their problems he is endeavoring to solve.

"America," says Marconi, "leads the world in the development of the radio telephone and the methods of broadcasting.

"Europe is far behind. But it is beginning to pick up.

"One London daily has begun publishing leading articles on radio two or three times a week. In the House of Commons there is a movement under way to license certain stations for broadcasting.

"At our Chelmsford works we are building 50,000 receiving sets. The interest is growing throughout all Europe.

"But nowhere is it so keen as here."

Marconi received me in his study aboard his yacht Elettra, a floating radio laboratory. He was most cordial. I had last seen him in London.

"I'm taking this merely as a pleasure trip—with a little experimenting on the side," he explained.

Combatting Static

Among these experiments have been some of the most important ever taken to eliminate the great bugaboo of radio—static, which interferes with reception of wireless.

"Some reports have said that we have succeeded in eliminating that which is known as static," the senator went on. "But that has not yet been done.

"Certainly great advances have been made in the reduction of this form of disturbance, but it has not yet been eliminated—at present.

"I can only hope that it will be eventually. I do not know.

"But we have been doing work on wave lengths of one or two meters. There is no static on these lengths and the waves may be reflected and directed by mirrors in the same way as light is reflected and directed."

Waves as short as these have never been used commercially. A little while ago they were totally unexplored. And now Marconi is able to use them for radio transmission over distances as great as 100 miles.

Privacy for Messages

Utilization of his method of reflecting waves toward one point will come closer to bringing about secrecy in the transmission of radio messages than any present means.

Attempts have been made many times toward the focusing of electric waves. They never succeeded because the waves were too long. But Marconi with his short wave of one or two meters may accomplish the miracle.

Marconi's laboratory aboard the Elettra is a veritable wonderland.

Radio messages are received automatically. No operator need listen in. The signals are registered on a strip of tape by a high speed recorder attached to the receiving set.

The senator picked up a bit of the tape. It was a perfect record of a message from the high power station at Carnarvon, Wales, recorded while the yacht lay at anchor in the North River, New York.

It was just one of the many machines on which Marconi is experimenting with the hope of eventually:

Reducing static interference.

Developing directional transmission which would insure secrecy.

And making the range and speed of radio transmission greater.

STOCK MARKET BREAKS

Prices Drop Sharply From Gains of Early Trading; Rails Hold Strength

NEW YORK—Apart from the rails, where early gains were maintained or enhanced, prices dropped back sharply before the end of the first hour. Oils again were the heaviest issues, Pan Americans, Standard of New Jersey, Pacific Oil and Maryland one to two points below Thursday's final quotations. Mexican Petroleum reacted more than five points. Several motors, low priced shippings and secondary steels were firm but the market as a whole lapsed into pre-holiday dullness before noon. Call money opened at 4½ per cent.

Rails, oils, shippings and steels were the strong features at the opening of the stock market. Short covering, based on the growing conviction that further railroad labor troubles would be averted, gave impetus to the higher range of prices. New York, Chicago and St. Louis, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Pan American Petroleum, Mexican Petroleum, Atlantic Gulf, Studebaker and Iron Products were the conspicuous issues at early gains of large fractions to 1½ points. Foreign conditions remained very unsettled, however, as indicated by yet another low record for the German mark of .0263⅞.

Call money rose to 5½ per cent later but Mexican Petroleum and the more obscure oils and specialties showed decided improvement. The close was firm. Sales approximated 550,000 shares.

WHEAT JUMPS UPWARD

Unexpected Advance in Liverpool Sends Prices up Here; Corn Heavy

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat had a decided upward tendency in price Friday, the chief reason being an unexpected jump in values at Liverpool. Besides, bullish estimates of the domestic winter crop yield were looked for from unofficial sources here. The opening, which varied from unchanged to ⅛c higher, July $1.14⅞ to $1.15⅛, and September $1.16 to ¼ was followed by a slight sag and then by substantial gains all around.

General buying on account of black-rust reports and on bullish winter crop figures sustained prices until about midday, but then demand slackened and gains were practically wiped out. No actual damage yet from black rust was noted. Prices closed unsettled, ⅝c net lower to ⅛c advance, with July $1.14⅜ to ½ and September $1.15⅞ to $1.16.

Rains in Iowa made corn relatively easy. After opening ⅛c off to ⅛c up, September 66½ to ⅝c the market underwent a slight general decline and then rallied somewhat.

Crop estimates both for corn and oats were somewhat bullish but were without any apparent effect on the market. Prices closed unsettled ¼ to ½ to ⅝c net lower, September 65⅞ to 66c.

Oats started ⅛c lower to a like advance, September 39¼ and held near the initial range.

Provisions were dull and irregular.

CLEMENT C. SMITH BUYS MARINETTE PLANT

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—Clement C. Look Before You Leap

A novice was braving the Dartmouth ski-jump. He shot down the incline, lurched weakly at the take-off, landed face downward below, and finished the slide, nose first, plowing into the snow smother.

"You jumped too late, Joe!" yelled an enthusiast.

"Naw"—from the smother below—"I jumped too soon. Should have learned more about the game first."—From Everybody's Magazine for June.

TROOPS SENT TO BREAK UP MARCH ON W. VA. MINES

Strikers Organize for Invasion of Mines Operating on Open Shop Basis

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Two companies of the national guard were sent into the Cabin Creek and Paint Creek districts early Friday to break up an incipient march against mines on Cabin Creek which had been operating on an open shop basis. The troops were mobilized and despatched on order of Governor Morgan after he received reports that bodies of men were gathering on Paint Creek and marching toward Dry Branch, Cabin Creek.

Much Disorder During Night

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa.—A detail of the state police arrived here Friday to take over the coal strike situation after a night of disorder in the mining district around Punxsutawney. Marching men estimated by the authorities to number fully 300, destroyed a scale house and scales, wrecked a motor truck carrying coal, and cut the tires from another truck. The march was finally broken up by the troopers, who rode through the crowd. There were no casualties.

Arrest Son of Operator

CLARKSBURG, W. Va.—John L. Orr, son of one of the owners of the Hudson Coal company, Friday was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Frank McCartney, international board member of the United Mine Workers of America, in connection with a riot near the Lewis mine a week ago during which two striking miners were killed.

McCartney charged that Orr, a company official, fired the shots which caused the death of the strikers.

GOVERNOR BLAINE CONTINUES ATTACK ON RAILWAY LAW

Scores Tendency of the Age Toward "Centralization of Power at Washington"

GOVERNMENT BEING REMOVED FURTHER FROM THE PEOPLE

Injustice Being Done to Badgers by Esch-Cummins Act He Says

ASHLAND Wis.—Gov. J. J. Blaine continued his attack on the Esch-Cummins railroad law, which he is pressing as one of his principal issues of his campaign for reelection, in a talk here Thursday night. The Governor urged repeal of the law and defeat of all Wisconsin representatives in Congress who voted for the measure.

Advocacy of the repeal of the Esch-Cummins law and the enactment of legislation that "will restore control by the state railroad commission of intrastate rates and supervision over service and that will promote the reduction of freight and passenger fares and rates on a basis of fair return to the railroads upon an honest capitalization," was made by Governor Blaine.

"The whole tendency today," he said, "is to centralize power at Washington, and to remove government farther and farther away from the people. More and more the federal government," the governor asserted, "is taking over the powers of the state and the nation is in headlong rush to centralize all government at Washington. This centralization of power over railroads is working a great injustice and injury to Wisconsin.

"Wisconsin had a two-cent passenger rate and Congress repealed that statute by enacting Esch-Cummins law. Under the two-cent rate the railroads were making money, under the Esch-Cummins law people pay 3 1-2 cents per mile for traveling and the railroads complain that they are not making enough. The reason is plain. A reasonable passenger fare promotes and induces travel, an exorbitant passenger rate discourages travel.

"The same representatives who assisted in depriving the people of this section of the use of a railroad, which they themselves largely built, also voted in Congress for a law that in effect repealed the state statute providing a two-cent fare.

"There is but one thing for the people to do, but one method for them to pursue, and that is to elect senators and members of Congress who will vote to repeal that law, and restore the rightful powers of the states to regulate and control transportation wholly conducted within the respective states."

Quite So

The members of the church committee were selecting their purchase.

"I don't think this is just the kind of cloth we want," said one.

"What is it to be used for?" asked the salesman.

"For covering the church pews," replied the committeeman.

"Oh, I see," mused the salesman; "you want something with a nap on it."—Town Topics.
